Wave after wave of Japanese bombers hurled high explosives at this great British bastion today while Jap troops concentrated at the tip of conquered Malaya for an attempt to storm the island.

With imperial forces drawn up along the mile-wide moat of Johore Strait and watchful around the entire 70-mile perimeter of this stronghold, firemen and police were kept busy throughout the interior controlling fires lit by Japanese bombs.

Enemy dive bombers added their screaming fury to the attack, but the British communique said military casualties had been slight.

The United Nations struck back with a raid on the Kluang airdrome, 50 miles north, where many of the Jap attackers were believed to be based.

In the section of Singapore which bore the brunt of this morning's bombing, authorities and ARP squads cleared away the debris within a few minutes to make way for fire trucks which quickly played water on a number of high-leaping fires.

ARMY BATTLES FLAMES

When one shirt-sleeved civilian who was laying hose straightened up for a moment, I recognized Sir Shenton Thomas, governor of the Straits Settlements. He was working alongside scores of natives.

Near by Lieut.-Gen. A. E. Percival, commander of the defending army, was directing men removing valuable materials from a warehouse in the paths of the flames. Singapore's civilians and ranking military men plunged unhesitatingly into the most dangerous spots to localize the damage.

Everyone, from the governor and general to the lowliest coolie bent to his tasks with vigor.

Aside from the air attack virtually no militiary action worthy of mention occurred during this fourth day of siege.

The big guns poised along the narrow Johore strait fired intermittently, but so far the targets have been well concealed.

The gloomy wail of air raid sirens filled the air, off and on, throughout the day.

RAIDS START AT DAWN

Singapore stood up well this morning to the intensified aerial assaults which started at daybreak with low level bombings and strafing of targets in outlying districts. The raids were climaxed near noon with concentrated blastings by formations of high-flying twin-engined bombers.

The light Japanese planes which opened the morning attacks were peppered vigorously by ground batteries.

Heavy smoke and cloud banks shielded the island to some extent during the afternoon when a small

NAZIS RUSH MORE TANKS, REDS DRIVE ON

Moscow
Feb. 3 (AP)

Germans are sending air and tank reinforcements to parts of the southern front to combat Marshal Timoshenko's increasingly active army but are being more than matched by Red army weapons, Soviet dispatches reported today.

("Despite the reinforcements which have already been brought up to the Russian front from the German-occupied countries, the German generals have demanded from Hitler the immediate dispatch of 20 fresh, picked divisions," the BBC said in a broadcast heard byNBC in New York.

("The generals have threatened," it added, "that otherwise it would be very hard, if not impossible, to prevent a general Russian breakthrough.)

Testifying to Red air force superiority, dispatches from the front credited one Russian air unit with destroying 17 Nazi planes in a week and long-range bombers with deepening their offences far into the German rear.

At one vital German railroad junction, they said, three supply trains of more than 200 cars were destroyed.

'BIG ALLIED MOVE BEGINS,' AUSSIES TOLD

Canberra, Australia
Feb. 3 (AP)

Army Minister Francis M. Forde told the Australian forces overseas in a broadcast today:

"A big movement by the Allies is under way."

Addressing especially the men of the Australian imperial force at Singapore, Forde declared that hour the Japanese are held at bay permits the concentration and deployment of more reinforcements and the accumulation of more weapons.

"It does not need my words to impel you, therefore, to hold on," he said.

Prime Minister John Curtin gave premiers of all Australian states at a conference here a confident outline of the war situation.

The democracies' resources are being marshalled, he explained, but problems of distance and time prevent plans being carried out immediately on a great scale.

MELBOURNE, Feb. 3 (INS)—Reports of a Japanese bombing raid on Port Moresby, eastern New Guinea, caused alarm in Melbourne tonight.

Occupation of Papua, the Australian end of New Guinea, or the Timor would place the Japanese in dangerous control of shipping from Australia to the Dutch East Indies and would afford a springboard for atacks on Port Darwin, Noumea and the Fiji islands.

Possession of Port Darwin, Noumea would put the Japs in a position to attack Sydney ,Australia and Newcastle.

JAPS RAID BIG JAVA NAVY BASE

Batavia
Feb. 3

OFFICIAL NEWS

By JOSEPH J. KOSAK
International News Service Staff Correspondent

In a possible prelude to an all-out Jap attack on Java, a heavy formation of enemy planes raided the great Surabaya naval base today, causing considerable damage and some casualties.

At the same time, headquarters of the South Pacific high command announced two and possibly three Japanese transports were sunk by United States planes which attacked an enemy convoy in the Straits of Macassar off Balik Papan, Dutch East Borneo.

The Netherlands East Indies news agency, Aneta, reported that the Jap air bombardment of Surabaya resulted in damage to naval establishments and that some damage also was inflicted on aircraft lying in the water.

JAP BOMBS DO DAMAGE

Twenty-six Japanese bombers, escorted by fighters, carried out sweeping raids on the airports of Surabaya, the Netherlands East Indies chief naval base, and also on airports in other towns in the eastern part of Java.

"Considerable damage to material was inflicted and some people were seriously wounded," said a communique of the Netherlands Indies fighting forces.

The communiques issued from Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell's headquarters said two more Jap transports were known to have been sunk and a third probably was sunk when United States aircraft twice attacked the convoy in the Straits of Macassar.

Two attempts by the Japanese to land troops on the west coast of Batan peninsula the night of Feb. 2 were repulsed with heavy enemy losses, the War Department announced today.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces also successfully counter-attacked the Japanese on their right flank, overrunning three lines of enemy trenches.

The landing attempts on MacArthur's left consisted of a first raid by Tatori special shock troops which were repulsed by artillery fire, and a second and more serious attempt at midnight, when American night-flying pursuit planes discovered a large number of barges approaching the coast under naval escort.

The planes attacked the convoy immediately with light bombs and machine guns, and as the enemy troops approached the shore the American and Filipino beach defense force attacked them with artillery.

None of the barges reached shore," although a number were found disabled and burning along the beaches the next morning.

On MacArthur's right, where Japanese had attempted to drive a wedge into the defending lines, the Americans counterattacked and captured large amounts of enemy equipment.

MacArthur reported to the War Department Brig.-Gen. Clinton A. Pierce had been wounded slightly in recent fighting.

Gen. Pierce was one of six officers whose promotions from colonel to brigadier-general were confirmed by the Senate on Jan. 29 on MacArthur's recommendation.

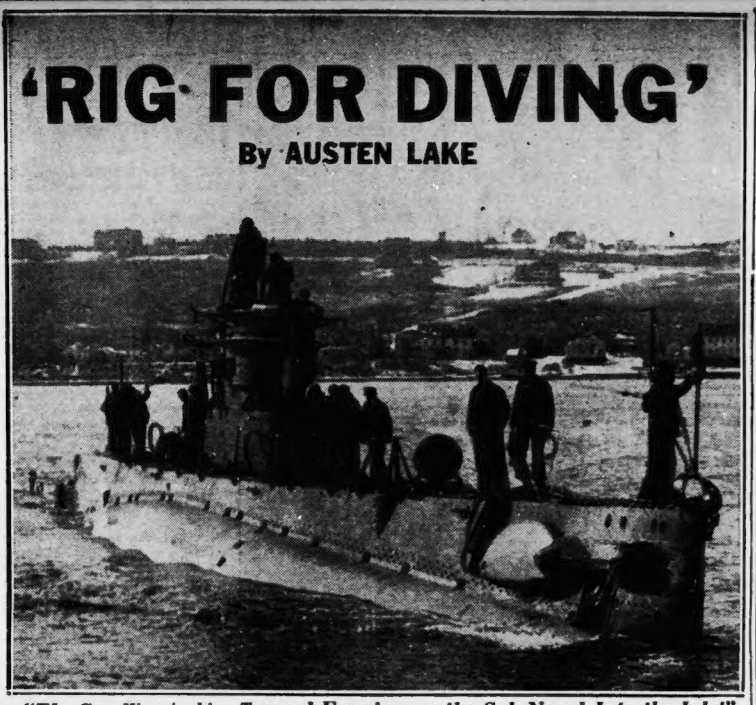
'RIG FOR DIVING'

By AUSTEN LAKE



"The Sun Was Arching Toward Evening as the Sub Nosed Into the Inlet"

DANGER? SURE! BUT SUB CREWS LIKE JOB, AUSTEN LAKE IS TOLD

Water, sometimes ash-gray, and sometimes parrot-green, swirled intermittently over our periscope. We were diving in a succession of roller-coaster slides, sometimes to 100 feet, sometimes to standard periscope depth and sometimes emerging on the surface.

At lower levels, through our cyclops-eye, the ocean was a solid, emerald twilight where mysterious, semi-buoyant objects floated past as undistinguishable blobs.

It was weird to watch the bow of the boat emerge from the seas. You fastened your gaze to the little lens-nozzle and focused ahead on empty acres of water. There was nothing but wintry-sea and a distant spar buoy.

But gently, and gradually, the nose of the boat with its forward radio prop poked above the waves, a churning, roiling wash that lengthened into a section of deck and gradually to the entire length of the cigar-shaped craft with the seas clinging like greedy, green fingers, with individual waves racing along the open decks and leaping overboard like defeated enemy.

It was like being disembodied and projecting the spirit outside this hermetically sealed ship to watch oneself from a distance. Distantly, a sister sub was surfacing and life and movement inside that big, air-tight vat was life and movement like ours. There was danger in the proximity of this neighbor, danger even though at the moment the two ships were miles apart.

NEVER SEE TARGET

Forward, through the cramped doors of the bulkheads, past the battery room where electric power was stored in large cells, there were torpedoes resting on cradles, — nearly 20 feet long, stainless steel capsules with brass, twin, toylike propellers.

Beyond were the shiny, circular, ovenlike doors of the firing tubes where torpedomen waited, theoretically, of course, to insert the elongated "tin fish" into their projecting chambers and stand ready to press the firing button.

The torpedomen never see their target. They are merely the agents who deliver the goods with a heavy "swooshing" sound like a gargantuan sneeze.

"We don't shoot 'em," said the Chief, "we exhale 'em."

The description was pat. Actual combat operation, reconstructed here in fancy only, would work like this:

The Captain, as key-man of the ship, crouches at the periscope eye, the vertical hairline which bisects his focusing glass fixed on a theoretical enemy.

SKIPPER LONE BOSS

There are graduated, range-lines etched on the glass like tiny ladders, each representing an interval of distance. There are ruled lines and numbers on the brass housing of the periscope to compute angles of approach and mathematical systems of logarithms and slide-rules to complete the formula.

Swiftly, in a few brief moments, he must estimate the course of his quarry, its speed and range in relation to his own.

The enemy convoy he is stalking —perhaps four ships screened by three destroyers, are systematically zig-zagging. At any moment a destroyer, through its sound detecting system, may locate his presence and come at him on headlong splash, its ash-can shaped depth bombs ready to kick over the stern and explode in a soul-shattering detonation.

ORDER TO FIRE

So the decision rests with the skipper alone, how close he can approach the target before firing, every moment of inching nearer giving him increased likelihood of hitting his prey—and also of being detected.

A quick, 15-second peep through his periscope is all he dares to risk, for the white wake of the "stick"

N. E. Youths Quick to Join Junior Army

Young America in the New England states is enrolling in the new Junior Victory Army and how! Responding with a rush to the call for SERVICE, the enrollment coupons of hundreds of boys and girls have swelled incoming mails to astounding proportions.

Junior Victory Army Platform

To encourage all boys and girls to take part in civilian defense by all practical means.

To present in the Daily Record, the Evening American and the Sunday Advertiser, the defense activities of all youth organizations through stories and pictures.

To promote membership in those youth assoctions.

To instruct and guide youth engaged in Home Front work through officially approved lessons and other features.

To help boys and girls build up morale, develop resourcefulness and acquire leadership.

The Junior Victory Army was launched Sunday and already its ranks are being filled by enthusiastic youth from all sections of New England. Like their daddies, their uncles and their older brothers in Army and Navy service, they have hurried to answer the call to help.

Enlistment in the Junior Victory Army is open to all boys and girls 10 to 18 years old. They can enroll by simply filling in the membership blank and following its instructions. A metal facsimile of the insignia at the top of the coupon, suitable for pinning on coat, blouse or cap, will soon be available. Those members wanting this pin should send a ten-cent coin (well wrapped) to cover the cost. It is not obligatory, however, to have one of these pins to be a member of the Junior Army.

INSIGNIA IN TWO WEEKS

The metal insignias are now being made and will be ready for distribution in about two weeks. Those who have already enrolled should not become impatient. Everything possible is being done to hurry the delivery of the Junior Army pins.

Some of the new members are sending notes with their enrollment blanks, indicating their high interest in the new organization.

J. Caprera, 29 Maverick sq., East Boston, wrote:

Old Car Plates Again Sought

Gov. Saltonstall and state American Legion officals today completed plans for gathering hundreds of thousands of old auto number plates from collection centers and transferring the metal to Norfolk Prison Colony, where it will be sold at public auction.

It was learned that the grade of steel in the plates brings a top of $10.66 a gross ton to the dealer from the smelter, so it was estimated the state's war activities fund should realize around $8 a ton or more from the sale.

As a means of conserving metal, Motor Vehicle Registrar Frank A. Goodwin announced that this year's number plates will be used by motorists in 1943.

30 DRIVEN TO STREET IN 6 HUB AREA FIRES

Hampered by sharp winds and biting cold, firemen of four Greater Boston departments today battled a series of six blazes in Quincy, Boston, Chelsea and Malden, which caused heavy damage and drove more than 30 persons to the street.

A three-alarm fire in the Wollaston section of Quincy razed the Glenwood Hall block on Hancock st. The blaze started in the basement shared by Cottage Restaurant and the Quincy Awning Co. and spread quickly through the two-story structure.

Chief William Sanad ordered the extra alarms shortly after arriving at the scene. Boston and Weymouth apparatus moved in to cover as all available Quincy equipment raced to the fire, which was fanned by the freezing wind. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

Aroused by the siren of a police cruiser, 13 persons left a Cheshire st., Jamaica Plain, block when fire raced through a vacant section into occupied apartments, causing sounding of a second alarm.

Among those driven out were Mrs. Elizabeth Tremblay, 40, and her children, Betty, 20; Lorraine, 18; Stanton, 16, and Ralph, 13. Escaping from another apartment were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burgess, while others who left included Mr. and Mrs. Douglas J. Burns and their children, John, eight; Joseph, six; Robert, four, and Elaine, one.

NINE SAVED IN BRIGHTON

Nine persons fled in bitter cold when flames raced through a three-story dwelling on Murdock st., Brighton, causing damage estimated at $1500. Those driven out included Mr. and Mrs. John Casey and their son, John, Jr., 2, occupants of the first floor; Mr. and Mrs. John Catherwood, in whose second-floor apartment the fire started, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Casey and their daughter, Patricia, 6 months, third-floor occupants.

Eight more persons were forced to flee when fire raged through a four-story brick block on Cross st., North End.

Rescued was Jacqueline Desantis, three, tiny daughter of Mrs. Lucy Desantis, who was carried from the third floor by Patrolman Joseph O'Hanley of the North st., Station. Also driven out were Mr. and Mrs. Julio Castrucci and their daughter Eliza, 21, who live on the second floor. Mr. and Mrs. Dominic DePasquale and their daughter, Rose, 35, escaped from their fourth floor apartment by climbing out a window to the roof of an adjoining building.

CHELSEA GETS AID

In Chelsea, firemen fought for five hours before bringing under control a two-alarm fire which caused $50,000 damage to the Spartan Club and the Big Chief grocery store on Revere Beach pkwy.

Robert Bennett, attached to Central Fire Station, fell 15 feet from a ladder and suffered a possible broken back.

In Malden, traffic was tied up in Malden sq. when fire swept the basement of the Macy Drug Store on Pleasant st., Malden. Two alarms were sounded.

Unemployed Jump 400,000 in January

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP) — The WPA said today that despite the accelerated war production effort the number of unemployed had risen by 400,000 in January and now totaled 4,200,000.

This was accounted for, the WPA said, by seasonable factors in agriculture and retail trade, combined with "economic dislocation resulting from the war."

E.A.L. Hill, Hub Reporter, Dies

Veteran of more than half-century of news reporting, Ernest A. L. Hill, 72, member of the Boston Globe staff for 30 years, died today at the Forrest Convalescent Home, Parker rd., Wakefield.

Born in Boston on March 28, 1869, he was graduated from Somerville High School and then went to work. He had sold papers as a boy, but after his school days he sold candy and peanuts on trains, working his way to California, where he began newspaper work on the Los Angeles Herald.

He returned from the West in 1889, and since then had been a reporter for the old Malden City Press, the Malden Evening Mail, the Boston Traveler, the New York Herald and the Globe.

Surviving are his wife in Reading, and a son, Lester D. Hill, as well as two sisters, Mrs. Ida Thompson and Mrs. Edwin Thatcher Clark, both of Miami, Fla.

Woman Leaps To Death From North End Roof

Since the death of her husband in May, 1940, Mrs. Eva Danna, 50, of Hanover ave., North End, had been despondent. She had caused her sister, Mrs. Rose Calscibetta, who lived in the same apartment house, much anxiety.

Each morning, Rose trudged up three flights of stairs to Mrs. Danna's top floor apartment to see how she was. Usually she found her sister seated in a chair, brooding.

But this morning Rose found the door to her sister's apartment open and the place empty. Then a freezing draught drew her attention to an open door that leads to the roof.

Mrs. Calscibetta dashed up the stairway. As her head came to the level of the roof, she heard a scream and saw the flutter of a dress falling over the building edge.

Mrs. Danna was pronounced dead on arrival at City Hospital.

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 3 (AP)—The fathers of the nation's fighting men now can bust a button bragging about their sons for two minutes flat without fear of interruption from other proud papas.

They can, that is, if they are members of the Button Busters of America, founded today by Roland (Dick) Broach, veteran of the last war, whose son, Roland, Jr., is in the Army now.

The new organization's constitution asserts a belief in the fundamental right of any American father to brag about his son in the armed services in the same manner in which he bragged of him as a baby.

The organization's insignia is a missing top vest button. Should the war effort gobble up men's vests, a vest button will be the badge.

Under the by-laws a Boastful Bozo member may brag about his son, his son's outfit or branch of the service up to such exaggeration that falls short of outright lying. But after two minutes of bragging the member may be interrupted by another proud father who after two minutes may, etc., etc. Time consumed in displaying pictures or letters is exempt from the two-minute limit.

WOMAN SLAIN, LEFT IN IDLE THREAD MILL

NORTHAMPTON, Feb. 3—Sprawled on a floor in the long-abandoned Beldin-Hemingway silk thread mill, where winter winds howled through broken windows and empty lofts, the battered body of a woman was found today.

She was identified as Mrs. Kathryn E. LaRose of Hampton ave., 38-year-old mother of four children, reported to police earlier today as missing since 4:45 p. m. yesterday.

Her skull was crushed, nose broken and her face covered with blood, and Medical Examiner Thomas F. Corriden, after a first examination of the body, said:

"It looks as though she was murdered."

HUSBAND NOTIFIES POLICE

Police announced following a preliminary examination in the abandoned mill they did not believe the body had been in the mill all night.

Mrs. La Rose, according to her husband, George La Rose, employe at a local hotel, left home at 4:45 yesterday to get a pair of shoes left at a cobbler's. The shoes, still wrapped, were found beside the body.

The husband worked until after midnight at the hotel, and when he returned home to discover his wife had not returned he notified police.

The old mill in Hawley st. contains machinery and fittings which are in process of being dismantled by Daniel Crohan of Springfield, and when Corhan went to the mill shortly before noon he found the body.

PLANT LONG IDLE

It was in a large room on the fourth floor—the top floor—in the brick building which backs up to the main line of the Boston & Maine railroad.

The mill has been abandoned for 10 years, but recently it was reported the building would be taken over for defense work and new equipment installed.

In the 10 years of idleness, nearly every window in the structure has been shattered in the ghostly plant.

BRIG.-GEN. MILES COMING TO COMMAND 1ST CORPS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (INS)—Brig.-Gen. Sherman Miles, 59, former head of Army military intelligence, today was assigned to the post of commander of the First Corps Area with headquarters in Boston. The area comprises the New England States.

Miles, a native of Washington, D. C., formerly was military attache to London until he was ordered back to the United States in April, 1940, to become assistant chief of staff in charge of military information.

Miles is succeeded by Brig.-Gen. Ray E. Lee, 55, of St. Louis, Mo., who has been acting chief of military intelligence recently.

Lee, a World War I veteran, has seen service in the Philippines and on two occasions was the American military attache to London.

At Boston, Gen. Miles replaces Maj.-Gen. Francis B. Wilby, 58 who recently was appointed superintendent of the Military Academy at West Point.

Acting commander of the First Corps area since Wilby received his new assignment has been Maj.-Gen. Thomas A. Terry, who resumes his duties as coastal frontier defense commander.

DISCOVERY OF NEW COMET IS ANNOUNCED AT HARVARD

A new comet, which will become almost visible to the unaided eye early in March, was announced by the Harvard College observatory today.

The discovery, by Dr. Fred L. Whipple, was made on photographic plates by Harvard patrol cameras. A fairly small object—now a hundred million miles distant, according to computations by R. N. Thomas of the Harvard astronomical staff—the comet is expected to come within 60,000,000 miles of the earth at its closest approach in March. By comparison, the sun is 93,000,000 miles distant.

Dr. Whipple said that it now appears in the morning sky, just before dawn, almost overhead in the constellation Coma Berenices. Its motion in the sky will bring it farther southward and westward each night, and it will move south of the Equator in March. Dr. Whipple said after the middle of February, the comet, now of the tenth magnitude, should be visible to amateur observers using small telescopes.

According to Thomas' calculations, the comet, with nucleus and tail less than one degree in length, as viewed in the sky, probably is just a casual visitor to our solar system and after swerving off into outer space may never be seen again.

Eloping Bride Loses Weight, Asks Divorce

SALEM, Feb. 3—Less than three months of marriage cost her 15 pounds, Amy L. Reed testified today in probate court in seeking a divorce from Foster O. Reed of Essex.

The attractive 2-year-old brunette, who lives in Cogswell st., Ipswich, told Judge John A. Costello she and Reed eloped to Seabrook, N. H., June 14, but that she left him Sept. 11 because her health was greatly impaired.

His treatment, she said, made her irritable and nervous.

"I could not sleep. I could not eat. I had to stay in bed. On. Aug. 19 I had to have medical treatment because I was in such a rundown condition.

"I got afraid for my health, because I had lost 15 pounds and very frequently became hysterical.

"On Sept. 4, a week before I left my husband, I warned him that I would leave if he did not consider me. He just laughed at me. So a week later I went to live with my mother."

Mrs. Reed's testimony was supported by her family physician, Dr. F. L. Collins of Ipswich.

Judge Costello took the divorce petition, uncontested, under advisement.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (INS) — Possibility of congressional action to end all strikes during the war was revived today as war production officials appealed to striking welders on the Pacific coast to return to their jobs.

Sen. Truman (D.) of Missouri, chairman of the Senate defense investigating committee, announced creation of a special sub-committee to deal with labor problems, including strikes.

Welders' Strike Still On Over Union Dues

Boy Crushed In Elevator Directs Rescue

Caught between a wall and an ascending elevator, Thomas Corcoran, 18-year-old delivery boy of Van Norton st., North Cambridge, today pluckily directed rescuers as they labored to free him from the shaft at 57 Franklin st., Boston.

The boy was jammed when his legs caught in the elevator after he completed a delivery to a stationery firm. His cries for help were heard by Richard Acford, shipping clerk, and firemen were called.

Working carefully to avoid further pain to the courageous lad who refused morphine injections to ease his sufferings, firemen cut away the elevator floor with acetylene torches.

Throughout the 50-minute ordeal, Corcoran refused to quit despite pain, and instructed the rescuers on each move.

He was taken to City Hospital where it was said his leg injuries were serious, but it was doubted amputation would be necessary.

No explanation was given as to how Corcoran got into the predicament. When discovered he was sitting on the car floor, his legs dangling over the side. The elevator was of the self-service type which is run by the occupant by push buttons.

CRUDE RUBBER FROM U. S. FOR BRITISH SCRAP

LONDON, Feb. 3 (AP)—An arrangement between Britain and the United States for development in the latter country of synthetic rubber "on an immense scale" was disclosed without details in Commons today.

The announcement came at the end of debate on the government's rubber control policy during which Laborite John Parker charged Britain's reclamation and synthetic production were slow because of opposition from tire interests.

A government spokesman added that scrap rubber was being sent to the United States in exchange for crude rubber.

He commented that it was easier for the United States to manufacture synthetic rubber than for Britain to indulge in the costly, risky shipment of oil in order to make a few hundred tons of artificial rubber. Oil is one of the raw materials used in synthetic rubber making.

Rationing of Retread Tires Due This Week

WASHINGTON Feb. 3 (AP)—Rationing of retreaded tires as well as new tires and tubes may begin this month, it was learned from government sources today.

While spokesmen for the Office of Price Administration, in which is vested all rationing authority, would not comment on the multiplying reports that retread rationing was in the immediate offing, other sources confirmed that only delays in deciding on the final form of the order had deferred its issuance.

There was indication that it might be announced this week, effective next Monday or the Monday following, complete with state and county sales quotas

Typhus Spreads Into Germany

BERN, Switzerland, Feb. 3 (AP)—Spotted typhus has spread from the eastern front to Germany and the Nazi-occupied areas, the German health ministry announced today, listing 126 cases in Germany and 138 in the occupied eastern countries.

A demarcation line has been established at which persons coming from the east are examined for the lice, a primary typhus carrier. The small village of Pernik, Bulgaria, was mentioned as one where typhus has broken out.

In Nazi-occupied Athens, hordes of starved and shivering Greeks roam the streets living entirely on weeds and grass, the Budapest publication "Southeast Economist," an Axis magazine, said today.

The coal supply is exhausted and the Greeks have spent the winter—the coldest in 20 years—without heating, the Economist said. Industries, railways and even Athens trolleys have stopped because of the fuel shortage, the writer reported.

BOMBS SPREAD FLAMES IN BIG SINGAPORE BATTLE

Singapore's guns threw up a heavy barrage when the first formation of nine bombers roared over. Then an even heavier curtain of steel was hurled skyward when 27 bombers came over.

Anti-aircraft shells burst amid the leading flight of three bombers, one of which trailed smoke and lost altitude. By the time the formation disappeared the stricken Japanese plane was fluttering, just clearing the distant tree tops.

Confident of their ability to make the invaders pay dearly for a mass assault across Johore strait, imperial forces kept sharp watch to thwart any repetition of the sly infiltration tactics which forced them to yield the Malayan mainland but there was no sign yet of any ground activity.

Bombing activity, however, was described by a communique as "considerable during the last 24 hours, high level and dive-bomb attacks being carried out and causing some fires." Nevertheless, it added, military casualties were slight.

The British, countering the aerial blow with a bomber smash at Kluang, on the Malay peninsula above the Johore strait, carried out a low-altitude attack on the Japanese-held airdrome and on enemy motor transport.

(A Rome broadcast of Tokyo reports said Japanese artillery was subjecting British positions to a heavy bombardment, with British naval guns silenced at one point and the great naval base and docks rendered useless by shelling. Twenty ships of various sizes are in Keppel harbor on Singapore waterfront at the south side of the island, Japanese pilots reported.)

Military circles expressed belief the Japanese would try to win a foothold on the island, either by dropping parachute troops or by slipping ashore from small boats under cover of darkness, before launching a frontal assault.

HITLER'S WAR ON RELIGION

Gestapo Fails to Stop Intrepid Churchmen

By FRAU ELISABETH MEYER

IN the face of the valiant and thunderous warnings of such intrepid churchmen as Count August Clemens von Galen, bishop of Muenster, even Adolf Hitler and his dread Gestapo are powerless to silence completely their challenging voices.

Even when he had been threatened with imminent death after his sermons against Nazi persecution of Catholics, he dispatched a daring telegram direct to the Fuehrer at the Chancellory, protesting further and more cruel persecutions. Copies of this telegram he sent to American newspaper correspondents, including Pierre J. Huss, for eight years chief Berlin correspondent of International News Service.

Pierre J. Huss

It was last July when this telegram was sent. He said he had watched with heavy heart as his beloved city and flock suffered and died under a hail of British bombs, when Muenster was literally ground to ruins in many sections of the city.

Six days later the Gestapo descended on cloisters and convents in Muenster to confiscate all property in favor of Nazi district leaders. They claimed, Huss says, that the buildings were needed to house families left homeless by the bombings.

Aware of this pretext, Bishop Galen sent another telegram to Hitler, protesting against wanton acts of violence against his flock at a time when bombs were tearing the city apart, and he warned the Fuehrer against the consequences of the brutal acts of the Gestapo.

LASHED AT NAZIS

Then he entered his majestic cathedral and in a voice which rose unflinchingly above the hum and roar of enemy bombs and planes he exhorted his congregation to hold fast to their faith in the face of present and future suffering.

He lashed out against the dark forces seeking to undermine the authority of parents and to poison the minds of children. He decried the blindness of men dazzled by power and military glory.

"Woe to those," he cried, "who harm the body or mind of a child, or who seek with false gospels to lead it astray from its Shepherd."

At this point, two of Heinrich Himmler's Gestapo spies who had been hidden in the congregation rose, stamped into the middle of the aisle, clicked their heels, raised their arms in Nazi salute and shouted: "Heil Hitler!"

Bishop Galen, six-foot German patriot and decorated hero of the last war, waited calmly, believing his own arrest was imminent. He said:

"My poor friends, why must you wait so long to muster the courage to carry out your orders? Please proceed."

GESTAPO SILENCED

One of the Gestapo agents spoke insolently:

"You preach here in a language of hidden meanings, aimed to stir the minds of these Germans against the government. You talk of home and the family and children and call on us to follow the example of one who is told of as a man without a family of his own, a bachelor wandering from one place to the next but never settled long enough to establish a home. And what could he know of children?"

Knowing well that this was a sneer against Christ, Bishop Galen with great presence of mind and with sardonic humor answered solemnly:

"I will not have the Fuehrer insulted in this house of God or hear slanders against him."

Stunned and silenced, the Gestapo men could do no more than turn on their heels and march down the aisle and out of the church. But at the bishop's residence they were waiting for him.

They had planned his immediate arrest, but such was the clamor of the crowd and their defiant threats, their cheers for their beloved spiritual leader, that the Gestapo agents dared not carry out their mission without further consultation at headquarters.

PROTESTANTS AID

Bishop Galen was later placed under house arrest, with permission to leave only under escort of the Gestapo and subject to all the insults and annoyances they could devise. But he continued his heroic defiance and his battle was not fought in vain.

Other equally brave men, within the church and outside it, brought such pressure upon Hitler that he was forced to rescind many of his decrees in the interests of preserving national unity at a time of crisis.

Some of Bishop Galen's most loyal friends and protectors were Protestant army and navy officers, high in the favor of the Fuehrer, who recalled the bishop's great service to his country during the last war and insisted that he be treated with respect and a degree of tolerance.

The crusade against the Catholics was partly halted, but it was only a temporary truce.

(Further details of Hitler's war on religion will be described in tomorrow's Boston American.)

Jung Cosgrove, 109 East Canton st., Boston, wrote:

"I am 16 and a junior in high school. I am very interested in the Junior Victory Army. Could you please give me information about junior police work?"

MODEL PLANES NEEDED

June will be interested to learn that the news about the Junior Victory Army to be published in the Evening American, the Daily Record and the Sunday Advertiser, will include details about the junior police as well as the defense activities of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Boys' Clubs of Boston, Sons and Daughters of the American Legion and a host of other organization.

In addition, arrangements are being made to present lessons and other interesting features that will make every boy and girl proud to be a member. Through all this news thousands of boys and girls are expected to rally to defense efforts and thus put their shoulders to the wheel in the service of their country and their community.

One of the first courses will probably be first aid instruction. It will consist of easy and simple lessons, approved by the Red Cross and will interest even those boys and girls who have already studied this subject. The course will cover bandages and dressings, transport of the injured, treatment for shock, fractures and splints, burns and gases.

JOIN NOW

For model plane makers the news will give details of the U. S. Navy's call for 500,000 model aircraft to help flying cadets in America's fast growing air service.

The Navy needs 10,000 each of 50 types of fighting planes for immediate use in instruction of combat cadets for aircraft recognition and range finding in gunnery work.

Only the most skillful model makers can fulfill this service because the planes must be built with scientific accuracy, one inch on each model representing six feet on an actual plane, a scale of one to 72. But there are scores of boys in New England who are capable of turning out these models.

Studying the models through the standard ring sight used on aerial gun mounts will teach the cadets type, identification and range.

Boy Scouts, 4-H Clubs, Y. M. C. A.'s and schools are expected to receive working drawings of the desired models about Feb. 23.

The Junior Victory Army news will also include features of special interest to girls.

Join the Junior Army now, boys and girls. Don't delay. And you'll be doing your part to spur civilian defense measures in New England.

Clip out the enrollment blank and follow its instructions. You'll be enrolled as a member. And—if you want the red, white and blue insignia as an identification of your membership, enclose a ten cent coin well-wrapped.

He said nomination papers have been in circulation.

Silin is 39, a widower, and has a 6-year-old daughter attending baker school.

CITY COUNCIL LAUDS JUNIOR VICTORY ARMY

Ringing with praise for the formation of the Junior Victory Army of New England, by the Evening American, the Daily Record and the Sunday Advertiser, a resolution was unanimously adopted yesterday by the Boston City council.

It was presented by Councilors Perlie Dyar Chase of Back Bay and Maurice H. Sullivan of Brighton.

The resolution read:

"Whereas the Hearst newspapers in Boston are engaged in a highly commendable, patriotic effort to inspire the youth of the nation to make their contribution to civilian defense by the sponsoring and formation of a Junior Victory Army and . . .

"Whereas such effort has met with widespread approval on the part of civic, spiritual and military leaders, THEREFORE be it . .

"Resolved that the Boston City Council in regular meeting assembled does hereby express its sincere appreciation and approval of the efforts of the Boston Hearst newspapers in their most commendable work in recruiting the youth of New England and the nation to assist in the victory drive for the preservation of our democratic way of living and be it resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Boston Hearst newspapers."

SUPPORT BY BURGER

Congratulations, a hearty word of encouragement and promise of fullest support for the Junior Victory Army, was the response of Arthur T. Burger, executive director, Boys' Clubs of Boston, to the new youth movement.

Burger said:

"I hasten to congratulate the Sunday Advertiser-American-Record on their excellent idea—the Junior Victory Army.

"I prophesy that thousands of youngsters will enthusiastically rally to your banner and the opportunity which you have to stimulate their thinking along constructive, helpful lines is indeed a great responsibility.

"The Boys' Club of Boston started preparations two years ago in the development among its membership of a Defense Corps now known as the 'Victory Corps.'

FULL CO-OPERATION

"We are training in radio operation and maintenance through professionally equipped stations in our clubhouses; the taking of photography out of the hobby class and making it a news photography project; the teaching of hundreds of boys of the 'touch system' of typewriting and the ways of other office practice work has stood them in good stead as they quickly joined our armed forces.

"Advanced model aircraft design and construction has stimulated many boys into the Air Corps and aircraft factory.

"So we clasp hands with you in encouragement and I assure you of our fullest co-operation. 'Keep 'em Flying!'"

UNITED WAR FUND DRIVE
$2,760,000 SHORT OF GOAL

With but eight days remaining in the United War Fund drive and $2,760,000 still to be collected, General Chairman Maynard Hutchinson today sounded an appeal for greater efforts than ever —more labor by campaign workers, more sacrifice by contributors.

Hutchinson expressed gratification that with $4,840,000 now in the treasury the five million dollar mark is well within sight, but he warned that the hardest work of the entire drive must be done in the next few days. In his appeal he said:

"We still have faith and we have hope, but now, as we enter the home stretch, we must face war's stern realities. We must have even greater efforts from each and every individual in all divisions."

Campaign leaders regard a general complacency in the community and failure to relate the United War Fund and the total war effort as the chief obstacles to overcome.

KIRSTEIN'S APPEAL

Louis E. Kirstein, president of the Associated Jewish Philanthropies, pointed out, that "our lives and our fortunes are inseparably bound up with the fate of our nation and community," in urging greater giving.

"Money literally means nothing these days," said Kirstein. "It will have value only as we are able to rescue civilization from those who would destroy it."

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 3 (AP)—Roving British armored [illegible] fought on the offensive northeast of Msus today in a dogged effort to hold the inland shortcut which dominates the bulging north African shoreline while the Fourth Indian Division slowly retreated through the Gebel el Achdar coastal range.

The British Middle East communique said this division was under heavy pressure of enemy forces which apparently had been reinforced. The extent of the withdrawal was not given, but yesterday this division was said to be just east of Slonta, 240 miles from the Egyptian border and 100 miles northeast of Bengasi.

(The Italians said they had passed Cirene, ancient seat of Greek culture, north and east of Slonta.)

Msus is 20 miles south of Slonta and slightly east. Thus, while giving way along the coast, the British were endeavoring to hold positions on the inland route along which they have twice slashed in previous campaigns to cut off Bengasi.

Apparently, the rearguard action in the Msus area, 70 miles southeast of Bengasi and 240 miles west of the Egyptian frontier, was being fought in the hope of stabilizing a front across the North African coastal bulge by threatening German Marshal Erwin Rommel's extended flank.

It was obvious that enforced evacuation of Bengasi and the area to the east had rendered futile any hope of smashing Rommel's offensive by a counterattack aimed at his left flank.

In view of this situation, British strategy appeared to call for a general withdrawal which would stretch Rommel's vital lines of communication and finally force a showdown on ground suited to a strong defense.

NEW YANKEE ATTACKS DUE

Meanwhile, daring new American air and sea attacks to slow the onrush of Jap forces in the southwestern Pacific were confidently expected on the basis of official statements.

An Army report that formations of heavy American bombers were helping the defense of Singapore by raids on airfields gave evidence of increasing air strength in this vital area.

As for the warfare at sea, Admiral Chester Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, declared every man and vessel of his command was being used to the fullest extent to take the war to the enemy's front door.

Small formations of flying fortress type bombers raided the Japanese airfields at Kuala Lumpur and Kuantan, on the Malay peninsula, the Army said.

Poor visibility prevented a check on results of the attacks, but the planes returned safely to their bases.

Another formation, consisting of four heavy bombers, was intercepted by Japanese fighter planes while on the way to attack shipping in the Borneo port of Balik Papan. One of the bombers was lost but nine Japanese planes were shot down in the ensuing battle.

Today's U. S. Communique

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (INS)—Following is the text of the War Department's 90th communique of the war:

"PHILIPPINE THEATER:

Two Japanese attempts to land troops on the west coast of Batan were broken up during the night of Feb. 2.

"The first raid by the Tatori group of special shock troops was made early in the evening. This was frustrated by our artillery fire.

"A second and more serious attempt was made at midnight. A large number of barges under naval escort approached the west coast. The raid was discovered by our night-flying pursuit planes which immediately attacked the convoy with light bombs and machine gun fire.

"As the enemy approached the shore, our defense force attacked with artillery and machine guns. The Japanese force suffered heavy casualties in men and boats. On the following morning, a number of disabled barges were found along the beaches. Some of these were burning and others were adrift. None of the invading group reached shore.

"Ground operations on our left flank were of a minor character. The frontal pressure of the Japanese 16th (Kimura) division in this sector relaxed. Some enemy pockets were found where isolated groups of Japanese soldiers are being mopped up.

"On our right where Gen. Nara's 65th division had previously attempted, by a frontal attack, to drive a wedge between our forces, we made a successful counter attack. Our troops overran three lines of enemy trenches, capturing considerable equipment.

"During the past 24 hours, there has been moderate enemy air activity in support of the ground action.

"In the recent fighting in the Philippines, Brig.-Gen. Clinton A. Pierce (Sierra Madre, Cal.), United States Army, was slightly wounded in action.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

41 JAP SHIPS SEEN IN STRAIT OF FORMOSA

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNKGING, Feb. 3 (AP)—A huge Japanese convoy including 41 warships and enough transports to carry an entire division has been sighted steaming south in Formosa strait off Amoy in one of several moves by the Tokyo high command to make up for its heavy losses in manpower in the southwest Pacific, a Chinese Army spokesman said today.

He said the convoy consisted of 69 ships in all, with nine large, one medium and 11 small transports, six launches and a hospital ship in addition to the warships.

The spokesman said several other divisions which had been reported moving south along the Tientsin-Pukow railway Jan. 23 were diverted at Tsinan to the North China port of Esingtao, where they embarked on waiting transports.

10,000 JAP BODIES

Tens of thousands of additional Japanese troops, he said, were pouring into Shanghai by train to board ships there.

As one of the heaviest blows to the Japanese in the Pacific area, the spokesman reported the virtual annihilation of the Japanese 16th division at Johore Bahru, across the narrow Johore strait from Singapore. He said 10,000 bodies already had arrived at Saigon, in French Indo-China.

The spokesman told a press conference the Japanese were making preparations for a drive into Burma from northern Thailand, and already had thrown pontoon bridges across the Salween river.

CHINESE COUNTER ATTACK

Concentration point for the Japanese forces, he said, was at Chiengmai, 100 miles east of the river and 175 miles northeast of Moulmein.

A Chinese communique today said Chinese had counterattacked in the Nanchang area of central China after repelling two Japanese thrusts south and west of that city, capital of Kiangsi province.

U. S. Fliers Aid Burma Smash

Official News

RANGOON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Defeat of several Japanese army units that had crossed the Salween river and penetrated the jungles beyond the west bank in a drive against Rangoon was announced in a communique today.

The war bulletin said the "Allies" had repulsed Japanese "infilteration parties that crossed the Salween at various points and reached the jungle country west of the river."

It was believed American volunteer pilots of the Chinese air force and possibly Chinese troops had joined British Imperial forces in resisting the Japanese offensive against the Burmese capital.

British bombers based in Burma also successfully attacked Japanese forces on Kadu island in the Salween river between Moulmein and Martaban. All the planes returned to their bases from this attack.

French Industry Faces Grave Crisis

VICHY, Feb. 3 (AP)—Vichy newspapers today quoted Francois Lehideux, secretary of public works, as saying shortages of materials and fuel had created a grave situation for French industry from which "only strict discipline can save us."

"We have no more coal, no more gasoline, no more cement, no more steel, even no more water to feed our turbines," Lehideux was quoted as saying in a speech at Marseille.

LAKE SAYS SUB CREWS LIKE JOBS

as it trails through the surface water is visible for miles. So the captain makes quick computations between ordering "Down periscope," preparing for the instant when, if his figuring is correct, the target is broadside and his own boat is trimmed.

FIRE!

A brief shudder passes along the ship as the torpedo tubes spit out their projectiles, and somewhere in the shallow seas a white, pearly wake is streaking toward the quarry.

"Down periscope," he snaps, as the silver plunger slides into its compact well.

DOWN, DOWN, DOWN

"Left thirty." While the sub turns in a swift arc and settles to comparative safety, the skipper watches the second finger inch around his stop watch, each second with a tick of eternity, while the crew stands tensely at liver, dial and wheel, absorbed in the nervous vacuity of the moments

Seconds later, perhaps, the submarine feels a concussion accompanied by the reverberating snap of a firecracker. With a tingle of satisfaction that every submarine man feels at the instant of bagging his quarry, the skipper knows that he has hit his mark.

Down now, down, down, into the safety of the sub-seas to lie doggo while the enemy destroyers drop their depth charges, concussions that shake the submarine's floor plates, distant "Humphs" that are less noise than jolts.

COURAGE NOT FOR SALE

It is strange, I thought, as I watched these lads, many of post high school age with here and there a seam-faced veteran, that men can be found to volunteer for so risky a service. Why? There is a little more money. But courage isn't for sale. The food may be a little more generous. But men don't risk their lives for the quality of a pot roast. Then, why?

"Well, take cooties," answered the machinist's mate. "We don't get 'em here." Indeed, there was no odor of seepage, no odoriferous bilge smells, no nauseous scents, or clutter of rubbish. The submarine was as sweet as a nursery, as clean as a hospital.

"Mud," enumerated the mate, "and then little things that hum like hornets—machine guns. And twenty-mile route marches with 40-pound packs. And cold rations. Huh! This is like livin' on a houseboat . . ."

Well, maybe! But that's not the whole answer either. The lure of maximum danger. The knowledge that they are choosing, without coercion or compulsion, a risky arm with swift, high pressure action and the prestige that comes with wearing the dolphin insignia. Esprit de corps. Somewhere mixed in all these mental elements is the answer.

TOP EFFICIENCY

"If a man doesn't like the subs we don't want him," said the skipper. "And we only skim the top of the men who volunteer. They have to have perfect health, co-operation, personality and intelligence."

Indeed, as I looked around the intricate machinery and stations where every sailor was entrusted with some vital, specialized gear, wheel or plunger, it was clear that the safety of all depended on the efficiency of each one. It went far to explain the extra layer of cameraderie which existed between officers, non coms and men and the absence of ritualistic stiffness which one finds elsewhere in the Navy and Army.

RISE TO SURFACE

"Blow one," shouted the diving officer as a sailor swung a lever, like that used by train dispatchers in their yard signal towers and a hiss of compressed air expelled the sea water in the No. 1, main ballast tank.

"Put on the lower pressure pump," sang a man through his telephones to the after motor room.

The huge ballast tanks beneath the floors were spewing out their contents under pressure of the pumps now, an asthmatic rumble as the borrowed sea water spouted back to the parent ocean.

"Close the Kingstons" shouted an officer.

The ballast tanks were dry now and the big boat was wallowing in the heavy wash of surface waves.

"Rig for surface," came the welcome order, as the deck crew clambered up the thin ladder to the conning tower and opened the forward and after hatches.

FRESH AIR AGAIN

Air, fresh and salty with the sea, came down in nourishing gusts. Cigarettes were lighted and from the after battery room came the uplifting perfume of roast pork, pan-browned potatoes and coffee.

The men relieved from their stations wandered aft, ducking under the overhead gear, drawing their mess equipment, and standing around wherever space permitted to munch their meal.

The cook puttered in his compact galley. A gob peeled more potatoes. A helper tidied pots and pans.

In his snug angle, behind the control room bulkhead, the captain and his officers drank coffee and discussed the day's maneuvers.

A junior officer, on his last tour of operations, worried over travel troubles. The elder officers, graduates of Annapolis, listened tolerantly and offered suggestions. There were books in a little cradle above the executive desk, and a bunk near the steel hull.

Conversation was easy under the released tension and the officers talked casually about other submarine disasters, gruesome topics to the writer, who had "covered" the sinking of the Squalus, and watched a portion of the "condemned men," brought to the surface in a patent rescue chamber.

There was an attitude of fatalism in the officers' manner.

"When your clock chimes, that's you," said one. "The men aren't afraid of the boats," said another. "Every sub man feels that a wreck is due to failure of some individual, not a flaw in the mechanics. The mechanics are sound enough. It's occasional human nature that flops."

The men feel a personal affection for their boats. They wouldn't change to surface ships.

Outside, a chill January wind, flaked with a faint sprinkle of snow, was blowing a cutting blast head-on. Far away, the low smudge of the shore line loomed gradually larger.

Barges wallowed with saluting toots. The Diesels were grumbling again, and the wash of the propellers churned up a lacy wake. The sun was arching toward evening as the sub nosed into the placid water of the inlet, and prepared for berthing at its parent pier. It moved like a sleepy cat.

OPEN AIR VENT—"Air, fresh and salty with the sea, came down in nourishing gusts. Cigarettes were lighted and from the after battery room came the uplifting perfume of roast pork."

QUARTERS—"No odor of seepage, no odoriferous bilge smells, no nauseous scents or clutter of rubbish. The submarine was as sweet as a nursery, as clean as a hospital."

Dutch aircraft shot down a hostile machine," the communique said.

These attacks occurred in the same battle-churned stretch of water where American and Dutch planes and warships previously had caught and repeatedly hammered a huge Jap convoy, putting 46 to 48 ships out of action.

12 CIVILIANS KILLED

In addition to the raid on Surabaya, airports at Malang and Madioen and the village of Magetan, all in East Java, were bombed.

The enemy also bombed and machine-gunned Rembang, another small east Java town, killing two persons, seriously wounding three and slightly injuring eight.

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys!

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Fashion

THIS IS THE GREAT hair-do vogue of this war decade . . . just as the Castle Bob was THE thing last time! It's called the Feather Bob, and is actually much softer, more becoming and more completely feminine than the styles of the past few years, as well as those of another but equally harassed era. These two shots show that it need not necessarily be a too-casual, too-curly and too childish a type of hair-do. One is brushed back very smoothly and becomingly . . . the other covers the ears becomingly and gives a marvelously smooth and sleek back line that the sophisticated woman prefers.

DECORATIVE SLACKS ARE ALSO POPULAR RIGHT NOW

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THEY BLAME it on the war, or they thank the war for it according to their lights, the folks who announce a very big boom in slacks.

The practical reason for the rush to wear slacks is, of course, various kinds of war work, and designers of sports clothes have been working on high tension to produce such types.

But, there is likewise a boom on decorative slacks to wear for the home dinner, and other places where they are not at all necessary for utilitarian reasons, unless some women may be figuring that in case of air raids this kind of long costume will be easier to beat the record of chain lightning in, than would a long skirt.

The kind of decorative slack costume that is being shown is sketched by Miss Dulin. Its a Jay-Thorpe model and is a one-piece slack suit and short jacket.

Made of deep green crepe, printed with huge Chinese red flowers, this suit has trousers that are pleated at the front, so they fall with the grace of a skirt, and a simple shirtwaist blouse. The jacket is green tweed with short sleeves.

FOOD

NEWS FOR MODERN WOMEN

By Martha Lee

LEMONS MAKE MEALS more interesting because they bring dull menus to life. The new sparkle ordinary foods take on when accented by the fresh, flavorful tang of lemon juice makes them appropriate on any dining table. Not only does this fruit add its own goodness but because it is a remarkable flavor leader, it also brings out the flavor of whatever food it accompanies.

Wise homemakers find tart lemon juice puts zip in fruit juice beverages and captures the full fragrant flavor of tea whether served in squeezable quarters, thin slices, or added in the grated peel form. This juice also gives a garden fresh taste appeal to salads; perks up vegetables; is "just right" as a fish or meat accompaniment; and its tantalizing tang has long been a universal favorite in desserts.

LEMON CUP APPETIZER

2 large lemons
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped
1 tbsp. mayonnaise
1 can sardines, chopped
½ tsp. minced onion
1 tbsp. lemon juice
Stuffed olives
Lettuce

Cut lemons in half, cut slice from bottom so cups stand level. Squeeze out the juice and clean out shells. Combine mayonnaise, sardines, onion and lemon juice. Fill lemon cups with the mixture and place in refrigerator to chill. To serve arrange each in a lettuce cup and garnish with stuffed olives. Makes 4 servings.

MACARONI SALAD LUNCHEONETTE

2 cups cooked macaroni
1 large can shrimp
1 avocado
2 hard-cooked eggs
Juice of 1 large lemon
1 cup mayonnaise
Paprika

Put cooked macaroni in a colander and pour water through it to separate it thoroughly. Remove black outer line from shrimp and cut in two. Peel avocado and dice, also dice the whites of the cooked eggs. Moisten the yolks of eggs with lemon juice and mayonnaise. Stir the whole together and serve on lettuce leaf, topping each portion with a spoonful of mayonnaise liberally sprinkled with paprika.

LEMON MERINGUE PIE in the making.

LEMON MERINGUE PIE

1 cup water or milk
¾ cup sugar
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
5 tbsp. cornstarch
½ cup cold water

Add sugar, salt, and grated lemon peel to milk and bring to a boil in a saucepan on direct heat. Add the cornstarch which has been blended with the cold water. Cook over low heat until thickened (about 5 minutes), stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add separately, mixing well each time:

2 well beaten egg yolks
1 tbsp. butter
6 tbsp. lemon juice

Pour filling into an 8-inch pastry shell. Top with meringue. Brown in moderate oven (325 deg. F.) for 15 minutes.

PASTRY

3 cups sifted flour
1 tsp. salt
1 cup shortening
1 slightly beaten egg
3 tbsp. lemon juice
Ice water (enough to bind dough together)

Sift flour and salt together, cut in shortening, add beaten egg which has been combined with lemon juice. Add ice water and mix dough. Roll pastry out thin and line pie plates. Bake in hot oven (375 deg. F.) for 15 minutes. (Makes three 8-inch single pie shells. Keep unbaked dough in refrigerator until needed.)

MERINGUE

2 egg whites
4 tbsp. sugar
1 tsp. lemon juice

Beat egg whites until frothy, add sugar gradually. Continue beating but only until egg holds its shape in peaks. Fold in lemon juice. Cover pie.

Beauty

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL—Even staying in by the fire, as Anne Shirley does so decoratively, won't protect your skin thoroughly from the elements . . . so today Arline Gould's suggestion of a new "under powder mist" which protects even while it flatters tender complexions is an excellent one!

NEW 'UNDER POWDER MIST' FOR TENDER COMPLEXION

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOU DISLIKE the effect of a heavy foundation cream . . . yet your skin seems to shrink from contact with face powder these days, and looks grainy instead of firm, fine and downy soft . . . then you're going to be intrigued and delighted by a brand new one called "under powder mist."

This is the brain baby of a group of preparations which were the pets of England's most famous fair-skinned royal beauties . . . and undoubtedly it is a lot easier today for you to procure it than it is for the original fragile-complexioned girls for whom it was made!

It was made for the tender complexion which simply can't take heavy, theatrical types of foundations . . . and it is significantly named "mist" . . . for it softens and moistens the skin . . . keeps it that way . . . without making the texture of it coarser, or giving it an artificial tint.

The liquid "under powder mist" is light, creamy . . . and is tinted a faint cloud pink . . . which roseate shade blends into the natural color of the skin. A tiny bit of the light liquid does double duty . . . it protects your skin from nasty weather, and smooths on it a clinging foundation which allows your powder and rouge to do a real glamourizing job.

For distressed damsels whose dry skin has been acting up in this weather, the base is ideal. It not only covers up flakiness and roughness, but even aids in overcoming it. You'll wonder how this can be accomplished, the liquid is so non-sticky and devoid of greasiness.

You'll adore one special quality which this misty foundation boasts . . . it is perfumed with one of the most entrancing fragrances we've ever known, a "night scented stock" this is exhilaratingly spicy. What's more it scents your complexion almost as though it were a skin perfume!

To learn about this unusual new foundation, a liquid "mist," phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, except the week-end, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

War May Curtail My Travels

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT
National Woman Director of Civilian Defense

PENSACOLA, Fla., Monday—Yesterday was a nice peaceful day on the train. We ate a very late breakfast, during which one or two visitors dropped in—first a gentleman who wished me to send the President his very best wishes, and then a soldier boy who was trying to console himself for a dull life. He had taken a detail of men from one place to another and thought a little chat with us might relieve the monotony. A little later on a gentleman came bursting in to tell us that there was a man on board who had a piece of shell from a torpedoed ship, and it was evident that being near a torpedo was no small experience.

We did much less work than usual, but got through the mail which I had not finished before leaving Washington. Then the hour arrived when we should have changed trains. We discovered that we were a whole hour late, due to a tree which had been found across the track.

With this discovery, I realized that I would be late for my broadcast, unless I found a fast method of transfer later, so I wired ahead for a car and on arrival in Flomaton, Ala., the station master's son took us in tow and in less time than it takes to tell it, we were started for Pensacola.

I shall always be grateful to that young man for taking most of last afternoon to drive me to Pensacola. He told me that from now on Uncle Sam is working him seven days a week, as he works on aviation parts. He was an extraordinarily good driver, drove carefully but fast and I walked into the broadcasting station four minutes before time to go on the air. There was a minute more delay in starting due to connections, so while I was reading they took a few more lines out of my script but we finished exactly on time.

I REALLY do not enjoy quite such close connections, and I suppose that from now on, in view of the fact that there are many reasons why trains and planes should be delayed and mere civilians can be removed from either one if more important people wish to travel, I had better travel less and allow more time than in the past, or else have nothing very important to do at the end of any journey.

Today is a beautiful day, but cool for this part of the world, I imagine. After a fairly early breakfast we visited Santa Rosa Island, which guards the entrance to Pensacola. With submarines playing around in so many places now, both in the Gulf and the Atlantic, fortifications along the coast, air and sea patrols all become of much more interest than ever before.

MRS. RALPH BRADLEY, of Commonwealth ave., had several unexpected guests for tea yesterday . . .

It seems that she is giving a tea on Monday, Feb. 9, for the new Argentine consul and his wife, to which a celebrated group of Boston's social leaders has been invited, and through some error the party was announced in the newspapers as taking place yesterday, a week before it is actually scheduled. . . .

Even though everyone concerned has been invited by personal notes penned by Mrs. Bradley, in which she stated the correct date, the press proved mightier than the pen because a number of her friends read the newspaper items and showed up for tea yesterday . . .

Mrs. Bradley, always a charming and gracious hostess, was not caught unawares, however . . . One of her prospective guests telephoned early yesterday afternoon to ask if she could bring a friend with her, and this call warned the hostess that others would probably be confused in the date . . .

Senor Eduardo Artayeta and his wife, who was due to arrive in the U. S. A. yesterday, will be welcomed by a distinguished group at next week's party . . . Members of the Pan-American Society, of which Mrs. Bradley is chairman, will assist her in receiving . . . They include Mrs. Samuel Cabot, who spent her early life in the Argentine; Mrs. Charles Higginson, Mrs. Richard Evelyn Byrd, Mrs. Joseph L. Hamlen, Mrs. Norman Harrower, Mrs. Edward Pickman and Mrs. A. L. West Movius . . .

Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, Mr. and Mrs. William Tudor Gardiner, the Robert Peabodys, the Gardiner Fiskes, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Coolidge, Mrs. George C. Shattuck, and students from Latin American countries who are enrolled in Boston schools and colleges, will also be guests . . .

NEWS OF THE MARRIAGE of Priscilla Eddy, daughter of Mrs. George W. Eddy of West Newton, to Dr. G. Thomsen von Colditz of Chicago, comes as a complete surprise to the bride's many Boston friends . . . The ceremony took place Jan. 28 at Dun Huntin, the bridegroom's winter home in Cocoa, Florida . . .

Since Priscilla and her bridegroom managed to keep their romance a secret until after the knot was tied, most of her friends will be delighted to know that Dr. von Colditz is a wealthy and distinguished Chicagoan and for many years has had the honor of being president of the Army and Navy Club . . . He still retains his commission as Lt. Col. in the U. S. Army Medical Corps . . .

MRS. C. CHAUNCEY GRAY of Cambridge tunes up her bull fiddle for a rehearsal of the Junior League orchestra of which she is a prominent member. Mrs. Gray is the former Polly de Friez.

Miss Collins Plans Bridal

Patricia Ann Collins of Cambridge will be a Valentine's Day bride when she is married on Saturday, Feb. 14, with a nuptial high mass in St. Paul's Church, Cambridge, to Corp. James W. Donahue of Worcester.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Deputy Chief and Mrs. John F. Collins of Cambridge. She will have her sister, Mrs. Morris Burns of New Bedford, as matron of honor, and the bridesmaids will be the Misses Ann Shea of Dorchester, Katherine Sullivan of Medford and Frances Buckley of Cambridge. Patricia Ritchie, niece of the bride, will be flower girl.

Thomas Donahue will be best man for his brother. Corp. Donahue is a graduate of Holy Cross.

Winchester Cast Revives Hit

"The Man Who Stayed at Home," a thrilling melodrama which was a hit during the last world war, will be revived by the Parish Players of Winchester on Saturday evening for the benefit of British War Relief Society.

Francis J. Hart, Jr., has not only revised the play and brought it up to date, but is directing the production as well. Among Winchester's friendly neighbors planning to attend are Mr. and Mrs. William H. McGill, Mr. and Mrs. George Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Horace S. Ridley, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Duffett, Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Avery, Dr. and Mrs. George A. Marks, Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Kelley, Mrs. William E. Begg, Mr. and Mrs. J. Warren Shoemaker, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall J. England and Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Nicholas.

OUR DAILY CITATION: To William H. Collins, general manager of the Fore River yards of the Bethlehem Steel Co., who declares American shipbuilders are "going to outbuild the sinkings." The kind of action Mr. Collins forsees will aid America and her Allies to win the war.

LET US not forget it: This war is for VICTORY.

It is not for a "new order" so far as we Americans are concerned.

We are fighting to keep alive the old American order.

That old order means LIBERTY, free private enterprise, a prolonged peace, if possible, and a constitutional form of government.

There are lots of persons among us—millions perhaps—who believe we are fighting for some "new order" among us.

Any "new order" can only be a form of Commufascism, veiled, maybe, as "industrialized democracy," State Socialism or some other form of collectivism with the word Communism, Fascist or Nazism whisked under the table—temporarily.

We are out, fellow-Americans, to smash Hirohito and Hitler (Mussolini is already a dead fish).

We are not fighting for "four freedoms for all the people of the world." We are not fighting for an "Atlantic charter" or any other newfangled notion.

We are fighting for the 160-year-old American charter known as the Constitution and for the life of the "four freedoms" at home.

VICTORY IS OUR SLOGAN—not a "new order."

"The United States!—Go put your creed into your deed!"
—Ralph Waldo Emerson on July 4, 1857.

THAT IS WHAT Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Capt. Colin P. Kelly and Lieut. J. D. Bulkeley have done.

They have put their creed into their deeds.

They inspire youth to emulation.

They put envy in the souls of all middle-aged American men.

They give the lie to the oft-repeated croak of the dictators that democracies are "decayed," that their defenders are "softened" by an "easy life," a "peaceful" life.

On the sea, in the air, on the land our fighters now stand ready to put their creed into their deeds!

And MacArthur and Kelly and Bulkeley lead the way!

AMERICAN WASTE has ever been a scandal to the rest of the civilized world.

But now the value of those things we have been carelessly tossing into trash baskets is being driven home to us.

The old rubber, the discarded metal, waste paper and remnants of cloth have been shown to play a vital role in the nation's war machine.

Housewives can and will play a major part in the drive to collect waste materials by various groups in nearly every New England city and town. First duty of housewives is to learn which items the groups want and which it cannot reclaim.

That broken hammer, your old storage battery with its lead cells, old newspapers or rags and even that toothpaste tube can strike a blow at our enemies.

But don't save your old razor blades, glass jars, cellophane, wood or leather.

If you have 100 pounds of valuable scrap notify one of the various organizations which have facilities for collecting such materials or, if you prefer, call in a junkman.

It requires 1000 pounds of scrap metal to make one shell for a 16-inch battleship gun.

Start saving YOUR share in that shell Now!

THESE ARE DAYS of intense activity. Industrial plants are working 24 hours a day to turn out the guns, tanks and planes that are needed to carry on the defense of America. Trains and ships are being loaded. Troops are being moved north, east, south and west. Everywhere there is visible evidence of our effort to carry out the task that has been set before us.

We all know that rumors and gossips are running riot. Soldiers have told their relatives where they "think" they are going. Civilians have multiplied and scattered rumors and, in general, the secrecy which is necessary in these times is being violated on every hand.

Hoping to check this as much as possible, the Army has chosen a brief slogan which has a rhythmic appeal and which at the same time is inoffensive when used between strangers:

"KEEP MUM-CHUM"

So, chum, keep mum.

THE PROSPECT of women flying war planes in World War I would have created a sensation in the United States.

Today, with 25 women wanted as recruits to serve with Miss Jacqueline Cochran as ferry pilots for bombers, the nation takes the news as a matter of course.

It is a tribute both to the growing responsibilities of women in the war and the progress of aviation.

Miss Cochran, three-time winner of the William Burke Harmon Trophy of the International League of Aviators, points out that when women are given service as ferry pilots men will be released for combat duty.

Her bravery and her enterprise merit the gratitude of the nation.

On The Side

-:- -:- By E. V. DURLING

Then wherefore should we sigh and whine,
With groundless jealousy repine,
With silly whims and fancies frantic,
Merely to make our love romantic?

—BYRON.

AS to whether the presence of jealousy indicates love there is considerable difference of opinion. La Rochefoucauld claimed: "There is more self-love than love in jealousy." Meredith said: "No true love there can be without its dread penalty—jealousy."

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR was twice wounded in action in World War I, during which he was commander of the Rainbow Division. MacArthur is a general who likes to take an active part in the actual fighting . . . "I cannot help forming some opinion of a man's sense and character from his dress; and I believe most people do as well as myself. Any affectation whatsoever in dress implies in my mind a flaw in the understanding." So said Lord Chesterfield. And how right he was!

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: The soda fountain is a Boston invention. The racing chart originated in Chicago. The frankfurter and roll combination, better known as "The Hot Dog," was born in St. Louis. The idea of a restaurant having all red-haired waitresses started in Victoria, B. C. The "no charge for an extra cup of coffee" policy began in a Kansas City, Mo., sandwich shop . . . There will be 1,000,000 soldiers in the AEF by the end of 1942. Married men with one or more children will not be drafted until there is a necessity for an army of 7,000,000. At end of 1942 the U. S. Army will total 3,600,000. The World War I draft yielded 6,373,414 men available for service; of these 2,702,687 were accepted in the Army and of the latter about 1,400,000 went to the front.

PASSING BY: Rheba Crawford. In the dim past Rheba was a Salvation Army lassie in Manhattan and known as "The Angel of Broadway." That was around 15 years ago; about the time "Japanese Sandman" was a popular song . . . Jim Jeffries. Greatest of heavyweights. Now 67 years old, but looks 20 years younger. Jim says the toughest man he fought was Tom Sharkey. "I hit Tom with all I had; even broke three of his ribs, but I couldn't knock him out," says Jim. Sharkey is also still around. He lives in San Francisco . . . Paul Popenoe. Married life expert. Dr. Popenoe gives a course designed to instruct people how to be happy when married. Rosemary Lane, the film star, took his course . . . Max Baer. Genial leather-pusher. In a few months Max will enjoy an income of $1000 a month from an annuity. To bring about this happy state of financial affairs Max put up $240,000 some 10 years ago. If you had an income of $250 a week what would you do with your time and money? Aw, go on, give it a thought. You can dream, can't you? . . . Anne Schneider. Hollywoodian. For 23 years secretary of the same man, Sol Wurtzel. That sounds like a record. But I believe Col. Matt Winn of Churchill Downs has had the same secretary for over 40 years.

PLEASE NOTE: "As to the claim human love is not controlled by human will. That when you fall in love you can't help it. Isn't it possible to voluntarily fall out of love with someone?" asks a Bronx subscriber. The information on this matter in our files is meager. However, some experts on the subject claim it is possible to fall out of love by refusing to think of the loved one's good points and to center on thoughts of his or her bad points . . . Over 10 years ago in 1931 in her book "Astrology for Everyone" Evangeline Adams wrote: "In the year 1943 Uranus again enters the sign Gemini and unfortunately Saturn and Mars will also be in connection with it. In 1943 and 1944 Mars will also be in this sign. This unusual configuration certainly portends another period when this country will be plunged into war."

RHEBA CRAWFORD
As She Looked When a Salvation Army Lassie

ADDED DETAILS: "As for ragtime, its greatest exponent was Gene Greene with Charley Straight at the piano," says Chicagoan Sammy Riskin. Maybe you're right, Sammy. But I never heard Gene sing. Did he ever sing "When Ragtime Rosie Ragged the Rosary" or 'I'm Leading a Ragtime life?" . . . "Could you quote a poem about a girl named Helen?" asks a Detroiter. The supply of poems about girls named Helen seems limited, sir. All I can think of at the moment is:

Was this the face that launch'd a thousand ships,
And burnt the topless towers of Ilium?
Sweet Helen, make me immortal with a kiss.

SIDELIGHTS: What's all this talk about renaming the Yankee stadium in New York? I like the name as is. What's wrong with it? . . . I didn't mean what I said. I just lost my temper." You often hear that excuse. But the fact is that when people lose their temper they usually say exactly what they mean. If you want to get a man's real opinion on something, first make him angry . . . "Are you familiar with horse racing as it was in pre-war France?" asks a Bostonian. Slightly, sir. I have watched the equines come down that long, long home stretch at Longchamps and have been at Auteil where they have nothing but steeplechase races. Also at Enghein, where they have both running and trotting races. And at St. Cloud, Chantilly and Maison-Lafitte.

GOLF: The first year I played golf I went around regularly in the low eighties. Then I thought I would like to go into the low seventies class. So I took some lessons. And so what? I began to shoot in the nineties, where I have stayed ever since. I was very good off the tee in my first year. After I took lessons I became an erratic driver and have been one ever since. If your golf is good practice a lot and it will become better. If you take too many lessons you may become self-conscious.

Linda Darnell

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—Linda Darnell, pretty as a peach, smiling her stuff for Uncle Sam's soldiers . . . Lou Costello (or was it Mayor LaGuardia?) strolling in Radio City . . . Alexander Korda buying soda-pop for Merle Oberon in the Windsor foyer . . . Jack Oakie digging in his pokey for "cabbage" for the Red Cross girl at Leon and Eddie's . . . Paul Henreid and Michele Morgan, the new romantic team—who have more autograph kids haunting them than any other stars in town . . . The Raymond Masseys chinning with their pals, the Paul Hartmans, at the Waldorf . . . Leonora Corbett giggling into Maurice Evans' ear at the Astor.

• • •

The John Does, the Jonathan Doughs, the playboys and the make-hay boys have been staying out nights laughing at Jessel at Monte Carlo, or Lewis, the Copacabanner attraction, or DeWolfe and his inimitable Versaillesmanship. Maybe there's something phoney about the sudden night spot boom; I can't tell. Maybe it won't last. Maybe the stay-up-lates are harboring ominous thoughts of "we don't know how much longer we can have fun like this." Whatever it is, the proprietors of the old haunts are beaming and the new places, hardly old enough to stand on their own feet (the 1-2-3, for instance, and the Penguin), are playing to standing room only.

Olivia De Havilland is making the St. Regis look prettier . . . Ed Wynn's rhumba with a tall, delicious blonde is now the Stork Club's best floor show . . . Jimmy Walker, sauntering through the Cub Room, looking chipper. Charlie MacArthur, looking very weary . . . Luise Rainer, usually pensive, was the merriest member of the audience at the premiere of "Hedda Gabler" . . . Julie Haydon is wearing the prettiest-colored dress in town—American beauty red velvet. It has two skirts, a short one and a long one, so she can switch from day to evening attire without mussing her hair . . . Phil Baker has a standing gag with a policeman's horse he knows on W. 45th st. He goes over to the solemn stallion and apologizes: "Sorry, chum, no sugar tonight, I gave you your whole ration yesterday!"

FABLES FROM THE FORTIES: Her chums are flashing that Bonnie Edwards Manville will become Mrs. Sammy Renick (he's the jockey) within the next six weeks . . . Edmund Lowe saw a recent movie short in which Maxine Barrat and Don Loper danced, and he sent a note to Maxine saying he's sending her some of Lilyan Tashman's jewelry and ornaments, because Maxine reminds him so much of Lilyan . . . Intimates say Adelaide Moffett will be en route to Reno the day after Bill Buckner's parole is up in March.

FLASHES FROM THE FIFTIES: Bob Grant's crew plays "My Buddy" when Lieut. Winthrop Rockefeller enters that place of 53rd st. . . . Tallulah Bankhead, in slacks, sweater and mink, playing gin rummy with Clifton Webb . . . Helen Jepson getting hep at Bill's Gay Nineties, where she jives into the aria called "East Side, West Side"—not a new tune, but a solid one . . . Paul Muni, munching at the Mayan, looks just like Paul Muni . . . Mama Berle is around town with a new topic of conversation. Now, instead of talking about Milton, she raves about his bride! . . . Since the line here about Nora Bayes' son, Peter, working as a doorman at the Strand, he's had so many people visiting with him on the sidewalk outside the theater that his efficiency—through no fault of his own—was impaired. So now he's been promoted to a job where he'll never be found—he's assistant to the Strand's publicity director!

TIMES SQUARE CUFF NOTES: Most unusual request of the week was received by Maestro Irv Carroll via those table request cards that Jack Dempsey leaves for his customers to fill out with their musical whims. One of the cards begged Maestro Irv Carrol: "Please do NOT play the 'Hut Sut Song.' Thank you." Dorothy Lamour is wearing her hair upswept, and looks very pretty, but exactly seven years older than she looks with it down. Which reminds me to tell Eddie Cantor that if he wants one small opinion, I don't think his chorus girls ! "Banjo Eyes" look one-tenth as cute as any other chorus line in town, although they're really pretty girls. It's that upswept hair that does it. It's different of course; but it'll never make the bald-headed row swoon the way page boys, pompadours and doll-like curls do.

BOSTON after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

A SLASH OF 80 PER CENT in the number of candidates for the Boston police force is indicated . . . And a requirement that candidates be able to swim 50 yards is certain to disqualify a number of men . . . protests against making swimming a requirement—after a lapse of many years—are expected to flood Civil Service Commissioner Lupien's desk . . . Appointment to the Boston force (or any police force, for that matter) will not win a new cop deferment in the draft . . . But service for as brief a period as one day will assure a policeman's job after the war. (A dozen letters have been received by this department lately relative to police examinations).

THE LID WAS LIFTED from some of the "class jernts" in the Miami Beach area last night . . . Our private correspondent to the Miami (or Nail-Biting) Front (where business has been sad) communicates an item which may be of interest to the regiment of New England bookmakers . . . It seems that some of the smart horsemen are placing their big bets through the mutuel machines, instead of entrusting these large "orders" to bookmakers in cities distant from the track . . . It had been found impossible to keep these large wagers shrouded in the secrecy necessary to protect the "price" on a winning horse at the track.

OF COURSE, WHEN A RUNNING horse reaches the status of a bona-fide "hot" horse, or "good thing," a large amount of money may be expected to be dumped in the mutuel machines handling the betting for the race in which the good thing is involved . . . This raises old Ned with the price, and a substantial five or six to one shot may well end up by being a short-priced second or third choice . . . Horsemen do not like to see the "price" on their carefully-nursed "good thing" go into a slump . . . Consequently, at a track like Hialeah, where the handle for each race is large, the betting horsemen are keeping their own secret and laying down chunks of money to the $100 cashier at the last minute . . . The price is influenced slightly for the worse, but that can't be helped . . . (It is infrequently that the oversigned goes into these detailed expositions of what-is-happening-to-the-wise-money, and we ask indulgence . . . The expositions generally coincide with an attack by d'at ol' debbil Sinus, when gadding about is restricted.)

KATHARINE HEPBURN GETS NEW OFFER

By Louella O. Parsons

Katharine Hepburn

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 3—The hurried trip of George Stevens to New York is to see Katharine Hepburn. Now don't go starting those romantic rumors concerning Katie and George again. He wants to talk to her about playing the Florence Eldridge role in "The American Way" and the chances are excellent, for he directed her in "Woman of the Year" on the M-G-M lot and she has high regard for him, as well as a friendship which started in the old RKO days. While in the East Stevens will talk with David Warfield, veteran stage actor, about playing a part in "The American Way." For the last 20 years directors, producers and film companies, etc., have been trying to get the Belasco star to make a movie and he has always refused. Stevens believes if he suggests to Warfield that he give his earnings to some war relief he may consent to come to Hollywood. I doubt it for he is a very old man now.

WOW! Just heard United Artists offered $300,000 for the movie rights to "Junior Miss" and were turned down. Before Sally Benson's book was dramatized gossip is it could have been bought for a song and that it was offered to one of our producers with Shirley Temple in mind, but he refused it. Now it's the biggest hit in New York and three companies are on tour. The reason United Artists, who I hope had Shirley in mind, couldn't interest Max Gordon, the producer, and Jerome Chodorov and Joe Fields, the writers, is because Gordon plans to produce it himself. I should like to see Shirley Temple as the young heroine and the Lonergan girl in the role she created on the stage. No one could play the brat who lives next door as young Miss Lonergan plays it.

JOHN CARRADINE, who has spent his life imitating John Barrymore both consciously and unconsciously, is now completely happy. He and his Shakespearian idol are doing the night spots together. The other night a couple of innocent bystanders overheard a conversation between them: "I've stepped into your shoes and I'm doing a little Shakespearian number in 'Whispering Ghosts,'" said Carradine. "It couldn't be my shoes," drawled Jawn. "The only thing I left behind on the 20th Century-Fox lot were my long drawers from 'The Great Profile.'"

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Teresa Wright and Niven Busch will be married as soon as she finishes "Pride of the Yankees"; Eleanor Parker and Forrest Tucker are whispering sweet nothings to each other; Lieut. Sandy Cummings, stationed in Kansas, is keeping the telephone busy whenever he has a free moment talking to June Duprez; Aileen Pringle, in a ringside seat at Slapsie Maxie's with Bill Charney, brother of King Charney; most interesting rumor of the week is that Fanny Brice and John Conti, who were as inseparable as apple pie and cheese, have hit a snag; Joan Crawford returns to Hollywood Wednesday and reports at once to Columbia studios; Buster Keaton is writing some gags for "Tales of Manhattan"; when Joan Blondell went to donate her blood to the blood bank, she was told she was anemic and should get some herself; Cary Grant can't have a haircut for seven weeks because of his role in "The Gentleman Misbehaves"; that's all for today. See you tomorrow! But Charles Grassedonia of Astoria, Long Island, says: "Let's buy them in stacks so we can make saps out of the Japs. Buy defense bonds."

IDA LUPINO
'Ladies in Retirement'

Ida Lupino Hit For Tremont

"Ladies In Retirement," one of 1941's most distinguished productions, brings Ida Lupino, Louis Hayward and Elsa Lanchester to the Tremont screen tomorrow.

In the demanding role Flora Robson created on the Broadway stage, Miss Lupino, of the famous British theatrical family, betters even her own record for starring performances.

The companion picture on the Tremont's forthcoming program will be "Belle Starr," which teams the exotic, young ex-Broadway actress, Gene Tierney, and the screen stalwart, Randolph Scott.

Sanroma to Join Choir in Concert

Jesus Maria Sanroma, eminent pianist, will appear in joint concert with the Vested Liturgical Choir of men and boys of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, under Leonard S. Whalen's direction, in Jordan Hall, Saturday evening, March 1.

The choir's program will be: Sixteenth Century Polyphony of the Roman Church, Modern Ecclesiastical Compositions of Approved Authority, Secular Folk Songs in Descant.

Bernhard Weiser's Concert Here Feb. 17

Bernhard Weiser, pianist, who will be heard in his first local concert in Jordan Hall Tuesday evening, Feb. 17, has programmed Beethoven's Sonata in D major, Op. 28; Chopin's Scherzo, Op. 20, B minor; Ravel's Ondine; Prokofieff's Six Visions Fugitives, Op. 22, and Liszt's Valse de Mephisto.

Olympia Features Army Life Hit Film

"You're In The Army Now," with Jimmie Durante, Phil Silvers and Jane Wyman, tops the new Washington St. Olympia screen bill through Thursday. The co-feature is "Blues In The Night," starring Priscilla Lane and Betty Field.

'The Student Prince' Still Reigns Supreme

By PEGGY DOYLE

Eighteen years young, "The Student Prince," with its story of love in Old Heidelberg and its beguiling Romberg melodies, last night returned here for a fortnight's farewell engagement at the Shubert.

Last September, at the Opera House, the company, headed by 18-year-old Barbara Scully, Robert Davis, Nina Varela and other principals, initiated a tour that has been one of the most profitable in the highly profitable history of that perennial favorite in all the repertory of light opera.

If that were possible, last night's audience was even more enthusiastic than were the heartily appreciative first-nighters at the Opera House four months agone. As the familiar story and the even more familiar tunes began shooing the customers backward down memory lane, the boys and girls of another day settled themselves back comfortably for an evening of genuine enjoyment.

• • •

"The Student Prince" may be old-hat to the rug-cutters but to the pre-jitterbug generation it becomes more endearing with the years. Like the Divine Sarah, it can count its "positively farewell" engagements on both hands and they'll ask for more.

Miss Scully, who observed her 18th birthday by making her professional debut in the role of Kathie, is charming as the little waitress beloved of the student prince.

Robert Davis, as the heir to the throne whose Heidelberg student days brought him love and renunciation, again lives up to the Prince Charming role visually and vocally.

Detmar Poppen's Lutz, valet to the prince, is broadly comic being exceeded only by the low-comedy duchess of Nina Varela, who plays to the balcony to hilarious ends. New to the company since it began its tour here is Lloyd Harris, playing Dr. Engel, the prince's tutor, with mellow charm and vocal certainty.

• • •

"Deep In My Heart," as sung by the Prince and Kathie, renews its hold on yours. "Farewell, Dear" is another of their persuasive duets. "Golden Days" and "You're In Heidelberg," the Prince-and-Dr. Engel numbers, are as pleasantly nostalgic as ever. And, of course, the "Drinking Song" and the male chorus' other specialty, "Serenade," still ring the bell as the tops in their genre.

Orchestra leader Pierre De Reeder's skilled direction and Edward J. Scanlon's staging continue to be important factors in the current spirited revival of the deathless "Student Prince."

EDDY DUCHIN, one of the smoothest m.c.'s in the business, and his orchestra bring their melodic-swing music to the RKO Boston on Friday.

Eddy Duchin and Orchestra On RKO Boston Stage Friday

Eddy Duchin, whose finger-work at the ivories delights the jitterbugs as well as the sweet-music addicts, brings his orchestra and a group of featured entertainers to the RKO Boston stage on Friday.

The highlighted, accompanying screen fare is to be "Two Latins From Manhattan," a comedy musical with a New York nightspot background featuring comic Joan Davis and the stage's Jinx Falkenburg in her film debut.

A top radio attraction, Duchin and his orchestra recently made reocrd-breaking appearance during a country-wide theater tour. New Yorkers flocked to the Waldorf-Astoria during the outfit's sensational engagement there not so long ago. The orchestra's success is credited largely to the popular young maestro's brilliant, individual efforts. His unusual style of leading a band as he plays the piano is like no one else's, and "in the Duchin manner" has come to be a trademark music-lovers demand.

Lew Sherwood, singing trumpeter, is featured with this group, as are lovely June Robbins, Tony Leonard, Johnny Drake and the Three Bar Benders. In addition, Tommy Wonder and Betty, brother and sister team; Bob Neller, ventriloquist, and Jean, Jack and Judy, comedy knockout trio, complete the bill.

Supporting players in "Two Latins From Manhattan" are Carmen Morales, Don Beddoes, Lloyd Bridges and Boyd Davis.

— "GIVE—UNITED WAR FUND" —

"Boston After Dark," by George Holland, appears every day in the Boston American.

THE WITCHING HOUR obviously has not yet struck, for Mona Barrie and John Howard appear much too nonchalant this early in "A Tragedy at Midnight," opening tomorrow on the Trans-Lux screen.

LEARN HOW TO BE ALONE

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE TROUBLE with most of us moderns is that we never learn how to be alone.

From the moment of birth we're surrounded with clutter and clash and clang. There's always someone to talk to, something to see, some place to go. We're never still—never really cast upon our own resources. We never "repose within ourselves." Nor face and find ourselves in solitude.

Indeed, the very thought of being alone gives most of us the Screaming Meamies. We may for one night endure the Extreme Agony of staying at home with Nothing To Do. But human fortitude can go no further. With the next evening star, off we dash to the movies, the night club or the bridge game.

Even when we race about in our cars, the horror of solitude still grips us. Give us a radio, or give us death!

Now, I've nothing against radios. Indeed, I am very much for them, and have installed them myself in various parts of my home, including my car. Properly used, a radio is probably the most broadening instrument the Machine Age has invented, and there should be one in every home. But I am very much against our hysterical need of constant noise and diversion as a means of escape from solitude.

SOLITUDE is not a blight nor a nightmare. It is a normal and necessary part of our human experience, and no character can become lusty or poised without large amounts of it. We need solitude as much as we need sleep or food or fresh air. We need it to discover and develop the truth about ourselves—to sift out the values of Life—to hear those Voices which can only come to us in the quiet.

Once solitude was an accepted, an inescapable part of all human experience. People learned to live alone because they had to. There were no movies to flee to—no telephones or radios—no swift transportation by automobile. People learned to "stay put" in both soul and body, and were the stronger and saner for it.

We are not smarter or stronger for all our racket and racing, we moderns. We do not know about Life, for we spend our days running away from Life. We have far less within ourselves than the lonely pioneers—and crack much more quickly under strain. Nine-tenths of our seeming cleverness is simply the jitters and nothing else but.

THERE is a magnificent scene in Bernard Shaw's play, "Saint Joan"—noble words which drive straight at the core of our weakness. Joan of Arc is facing the Inquisition. Her friends have deserted her. Fortune has turned against her. The stake looms before her.

Terrified, heartbroken though she is, she defies them all and defends her faith. They have told her that she is friendless and alone. Bravely her young voice cries:

"Do not think you can frighten me by telling me that I'm alone. France is alone, and God is alone; and what is my loneliness before my country and my God? I see now that the loneliness of God is His strength; what would He be if He listened to your jealous little counsels? Well, my loneliness shall be my strength, too."

We ARE alone. We cannot really run away from our loneliness. Stop trying! Face and accept your solitude! Take it gratefully. Rest in it wisely.

Let your loneliness be your strength!

EARTHQUAKE RINGS BELLS

PUEBLA, Mexico, Feb. 3 (AP)—An earthquake strong enough to ring the bells in the cathedral tower was felt here.

ARMORY FIRE TIP WINS AWARD

A phone call from a Springfield resident to the Tip Editor of the Record-American at Liberty 4000 with news of a $200,000 defense plant fire brought a $5 prize to that alert citizen.

A Brookline woman and two men shared second honors with awards of $2 each; the Brookline woman for a tip on a Brookline fire, a Provincetown man for roundup story of a Cape storm, an East Boston man for a tip on alien enemy roundup.

Awards of $1 went to 14 others. They were:

A Roxbury woman for tip on a crossing accident; a Roxbury man for tip on an early morning fire; a Dorchester man for tip on a truck crash; a Somerville man for tip on a "looper's" crash; an East Boston man for tip on a battered ship; an Allston man for tip on welders going to work on demolition of the Atlantic ave. "El" structure.

A Dorchester man for tip on an East Boston auto crash; a Lynn man for tip on a hit-run victim; a South End woman for tip on a lost dog causing neighborhood excitement; a Lynn man for tip on a truck afire; a Revere woman for tip on a subway accident; a Chelsea man for tip on a North Shore road auto crash; a Roxbury man for tip on fire in an oil truck

FITTING AND TRIMMING

A brand-new slip cover to banish those old-furniture blues! It's not hard to make your own trim-fitting covers the pin-on way. And think what they can do for family morale!

The gay cretonne in our picture is yellow, printed with parrot green bowknots. The trimming is easily-applied moss fringe — in parrot green—all very modern and far from gloomy!

To work the pin-on system, you start by removing cushions, then take a length of the fabric and smooth it right over the old upholstery, working down front of back and over seat. Between back and seat allow a 4-inch tuck-in. Anchor every few inches with pins where seams will be and cut 1½ inches outside pins.

You smooth and pin on fabric for the other parts of the chair in the same way, then remove pinned-up cover, baste and try on for last-minute adjustments.

Every step in making a slip cover is clearly explained and diagrammed in our 40-page booklet, "Making Slip Covers Successfully."

Send 15c (plus one cent to cover cost of mailing) for our booklet, "Making Slip Covers Successfully," to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 109 West 19th Street, New York, N. Y.

Benito Has Lost All of His Courage

—By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER—

Distributed by International News Service

What's happened since the days when Benito used to sound the hours from a balcony with the regularity of a cuckoo?

I was in Italy in 1938 and even then Benito was earmarked for oblivion. I ought to know for every night my chauffeur reported to the Gestapo.

It was then an oily and menacing border official asked about my passport, "Whom shall we notify in case of accident?"

And I told him, Notify me —and there won't be any accident."

We had great hopes of Benito's courage on the theory that good goods come in small packages. Since then we discovered that the wrapper must be yellow.

YEAST YOU BUY AT THE GROCERY?... FLEISCHMANN'S?
CERTAINLY. IN ADDITION TO THE B COMPLEX, FLEISCHMANN'S HAS OTHER VITAMINS NOT FOUND IN ANY OTHER YEAST. SO CHEAP TOO. ONLY A FEW PENNIES A CAKE! MAYBE YOU COULD GET SOME REAL GOOD OUT OF IT, TOO

AND WHAT A TASTY NEW WAY TO TAKE IT... IN TOMATO JUICE. MASH A CAKE IN A DRY GLASS WITH A FORK, ADD A LITTLE TOMATO JUICE, STIR TILL BLENDED. FILL UP THE GLASS AND DRINK IT... TWICE A DAY. SWELL TASTING, HEY?

If you bake at home, remember that Fleischmann's has more vitamins than any other yeast.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Sports by Jack Conway

Outdoor Life Holds Thrills

SHELDON FAIRBANKS will bring the thrills of Spring and the delights of Summer outdoors to you with the Sportsmen's and Boat Show that opens at Mechanics Building on Saturday. I am one of the thousands who always look forward to this show with more than usual interest. It brings to me a great big splash of Spring and Summer at a time when I am shivering near one of the family radiators.

When I first met Sheldon Fairbanks, he was General Manager of the Garden. In those days, he showed the promotional flair that caused him to organize the Sportsmen's and Boat Show, radio and home beautiful shows, racing stables, dog tracks and other ventures that required considerable vision and imagination.

I might add that when Sheldon was at the Garden he did not display any symptoms of having a desire to pick daily doubles or horses that never even get close to the money. I would classify Fairbanks' love for taking an occasional flyer on a horse race under the heading of pleasure because I know that he could not make enough money in this manner to even stage a weenie roast at one of Sam Simon's or Joe Stevens' race track stands.

I believe it is a good thing for Sheldon and for the community that he is not so hot as a picker of racing winners as his weakness as a handicapper enables him to put the money he earns at his various promotions merrily back into circulation.

The Sportsmen's and Boat Show is spotted correctly on its dates and it will attract lovers of the outdoors from as far as Canada. It comes at a time when fishermen, hunters and barnyard golfers like myself are dreaming of the time we can get out into the open and do our stuff.

Lure of the Outdoors

I could always appreciate the lure of the outdoors especially in Spring. There is not anything any more invigorating than to tramp beside a sparkling brook as it splashes its way down a mountain side. There is a freshness in the air and in the things of nature. The sun has a greater warmth, and it reaches forth to nourish everything within the reach of its rays.

I have tramped through the mountains of New Hampshire as well as the Ozarks in Arkansas in the Spring of the year. I have seen the small game scamper as the hunting dogs have broken their way through the brush. I have experienced the thrill of pulling four and five-pound lake trout out of the lakes of New Hampshire.

It has not been the catching of a trout or the shooting of small game that has given me the greatest enjoyment on these trips into the outdoors. It has been the glorious parade of Mother Nature herself in party dress eager to be admired and anxious to please.

I have always felt that the greatest things in life were to be had with little or no cost.

This thought has often come to me at Scituate in the spring or summer as I have motored along a road from my home to the harbor. To my right are rolling hills with their green trees and rambling bushes. And at my feet is the sea with the morning sun dancing on the waters, happy to be caressed by rippling waves.

The yachts, small pleasure boats and the boats of the lobstermen always look peaceful.

Son of city streets, with roaring crowds and maddening excitement, scenes such as these break through the environment of my own life and make me happy to be alive.

I think every lover of the outdoors feels the same when he enjoys nature's simple beauties which are majestic in their elegance.

Numerous Exhibits

There are new and old exhibits at this year's Sportsmen's and Boat Show, according to Floyd Bell, who is doing the publicity. Mechanics building is being transferred into a fairyland for the hunter and the fisherman.

If one can control his imagination, he will be able to feel he is in the depths of the Maine woods or rushing along the coast line in a modern craft.

There will be real fish and animals, interesting guides with their stories of the woods and their magic in handling a rod or a gun, the sportsmen who love the outdoors and who spend much time drinking in the delights of nature, and then there will be you and me and my son, Bill, who occasionally like to take ourselves away from steaming cities, race tracks, ball parks, boxing arenas and such things and to find our way to a friendly stream or to a pond, lake or to the seashort where we can enjoy the outdoors to the fullest.

And when the day's sport is over the meal cooked over an open fireplace in the woods adds the final touch to the affair.

It is with more than usual eagerness that I look forward to this year's Sportsmen's and Boat Show There will not be an exhibition of tanks, and planes, and the deadly instruments of modern warfare. It will be a showing of a paradise such as the world was intended to be when folks have a chance for recreation and play.

NATS GET 21 NIGHT TILTS, OTHER CLUBS HELD TO 14

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—The major league baseball clubs today voted to increase the night-game limit from seven to 14 games at the home park for each club with the exception of the Washington Senators, who were granted 21 night games.

The major league executives, at their joint meeting, also amended their "curfew" rule on night games to conform with the advent of war time (daylight saving), which goes into effect next week, approved the actions of the National and American Leagues in their separate meetings and removed previous restrictions on early-season Sunday doubleheaders.

DEFENSE BONDS

The executives, including Commissioner K. M. Landis and Leslie O'Connor, secretary-treasurer of baseball's government, agreed to accept 10 per cent of their salaries in defense bonds and to urge their players and other employes to do likewise.

The decision to allow Washington to play 21 night games was reached only after an argument which lasted approximately an hour after the magnates had agreed upon the 14-game limit for other clubs.

The Senators had asked for 28 games, and it was understood that the compromise on 21 was suggested by Commissioner Landis.

WORK FIVE INNINGS

In approving the decision to play two All-Star games, it was decided today that pitchers will be allowed to work as long as five innings instead of only three.

No pitcher who appears in the first game in Brooklyn or New York will be permitted to pitch again in the second contest, which will be held the following day in a Western American League park.

The pitching rosters of the two All-Star squads will be increased to provide two sets of hurlers.

Inasmuch as neither the Red Sox nor the Braves have the equipment for night ball and do not plan to purchase it this year, the 14-game nigth schedule probably means that both Boston clubs will play twice the number of night games away from home that they played last year.

There is no ruling in the books stating that a ball club has to start its game at any particular hour, so that if the Braves or Sox decide to start their games at 5 p. m. they could not be contrued as night games. However, games starting at 7 p. m. might get that classification.

It will be a matter evidently for the clubs to settle among themselves.

NO OBLIGATIONS

Will Harridge, president of the American League, explained that the limits of 14 and 21 night games established today were maximums and that no club was obligated to play all or any part of this program.

The Cleveland Indians, it was disclosed, still were not convinced of the advisability of increasing their night game program and might substitute some twilight games in lieu of nocturnal contests.

General Manager Roger Peckinpaugh said a decision would be made after he and President Alva Bradley had explored the matter further.

MIDNIGHT BASEBALL

Because it will not be dark enough for some western clubs to start their night games until perhaps 9:30 p. m. with War Time in effect, the leagues voted that the rule prohibiting the start of an inning after 11:50 p. m. should be changed to 12:50 a. m.

EDDIE SHORE

Eddie Shore Back in Action In Star Game

CLEVELAND, Feb. 3 (AP)—The American Hockey League's all-star game tonight for the Red Cross will start with a 47-goal Cleveland line on the western team, but the eastern division has the most impressive array of high - point scorers.

Bill Cook of Cleveland and his brother Bun Cook of Providence, opposing coaches, have 17 men each, chosen by fans, press and radio men, and themselves. The West has five Cleveland Barons and the East five Springfield Indians.

Rookie Joe Turner of Indianapolis will tend goal, to be relieved later by Nick Damore of the Bruins' Hershey farm.

Turbulent Eddie Shore of Springfield and big Frank Beisler, one of his stalwarts, will handle defense and Mike Karakas of Providence will be the goalie for the eastern team.

The East's scoring punch is enhanced by the presence, as an extra forward, of Ab Demarco of Springfield, now leading the league with 46 points.

This is the league's first all-star game. Proceeds—everyone pays but the 34 players, who are donating their services—will be divided equally between the American and Canadian Red Cross.

Forest Evashevskis Have Baby Boy

UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 3 (INS)—There was a new candidate today for varsity football of some future date at Hamilton College as a son was born to Head Football Coach and Mrs. Forest Evashevski.

Mrs. Evashevski is the daughter of U. S. Sen. Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan.

Evashevski is the former blocking back for Tom Harmon at Michigan University.

The baby, born at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, weighed six pounds ten ounces.

Boston Anglers Lucky in Miami

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 3—Mr. and Mrs. H. Warren Beard and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Duffy, of Boston, trolling in the Gulf Stream off Miami Beach, brought in a total of 43 snook and redfish here.

Harvard Ace to Teach Japs Jiu-Jitsu

Tudor Gardiner is going to teach Jiu-jitsu to the Japs. A former Harvard wrestling and football star, as well as coach of judo the past two seasons, Tudor has left his coaching job and Harvard Law School, where he was a second-year student, to enlist in the Army, friends revealed today.

Son of the former Maine Governor and brother of 1940 varsity tackle Tom Gardiner, the burly, soft-spoken Gardiner showed last Dec. 7 that his fondness for the manly, if somewhat Japanese, art of judo, was subject to the needs of patriotism.

At that time, Tudor and his 12 pupils voted to change the name of the Judo Club to the Liberty Scientific Self-defense Ass'n.

He has been assisting Clarence "Chief" Boston with the wrestling team, and his adaptation of judo holds to intercollegiate wrestling "takedowns" was proving invaluable to the Crimson grapplers.

Gardiner's departure will probably cause Director Bill Bingham several uneasy moments, because he was regarded as the logical successor to Boston as wrestling coach. The "Chief" himself, a reserve officer in the Marine Corps, expects to be called to service within a few days.

Fair Grounds Pickup May Extend Meeting

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Fair Grounds race track operators, who two weeks ago feared they might not be operating next season, today added another race to their daily card and considered a request by horsemen to extend the 42-day program as business continued to pick up.

The eight-race program will include a daily two-year-old event, Manager Ed Brennan announced. Owners asked the management to prolong the meeting, scheduled to end Feb. 17, for a week or 10 days.

Their request may bring favorable action as operators of the track, after being handicapped by bad weather and a post-holiday lull early in the year, are expecting spring weather to bring many visitors to the city.

A recent upturn in betting caused the management to order Monday racing during the last two weeks.

In addition, one spokesman said, several owners at Hot Springs, Ark., awaiting the opening of Oaklawn Park, have shipped their horses here after learning of recent successes.

Illegal handbooks competing with the mutuels in nearby Jefferson Parish were closed yesterday, which may add some money to the track today. However, the New Orleans books were still operating. They had been expected in some quarters to be closed after last week's municipal primaries.

Draft Fails To Touch Loyola Court Squad

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3 (AP)—Army physical examinations have relieved Coach Jack Orsley's worries about the draft crippling his basketball team at Loyola University of the South.

High scorer Steve Marchev was rejected for near-sightedness. Forward Dick McCloskey was turned down for color-blindness and center Jim McCafferty can't be a soldier because he's too tall—six feet eight inches.

Guard Bob Segura, forward Eldon Dicharry and reserve center Steve Mado have been deferred until they complete their dentistry courses.

Hansen to Try New Grip on Cox

Joe Cox, Kansas, will try to take the hollow ring out of his previous victory when he tackles Bill Hansen in the feature of Paul Bowser's weekly wrestling show at the Arena tomorrow night.

Cox captured the decision when the referee awarded him the match when his opponent was injured in a fall out of the ring—much to the protest of the fans.

Hansen, a scientific grappler, will try a couple of new holds on his wild foe in the hopes of avenging the loss as well as gain a spot on next week's charity card. All victors in this week's show have been promised places on the annual Infantile Paralysis Show next Wednesday.

A special match will bring out El Diablo, the mysterious gent in the green mask, vs. Les Ryan, former Fordham football hero, while preliminary matches find Tiger the Winnipeg lumberjack, Tasker, meeting Lee Henning of Australia and Pete Baltran of Lithuania facing Andy Meixner of Brooklyn.

Race Winnings Face 10 PC Tax In Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 3 (AP)—A proposal to tax race track winnings ten per cent was made by State Rep. Pink G. Curd.

Curd, Calloway county Democrat, estimated that if the bill he introduced in the Kentucky House of Representatives to impose the tax on pari-mutuels machines' "pay-offs" got final approval, it would bring in $2,000,000 annually.

The state has no official records of betting at its tracks, but at the revenue department it was declared the $2,000,000 estimate was "rather high." Administration leaders would not comment on the bill.

Kentucky taxes Churchill Downs at Louisville $2500 a day; Latonia (Covington) and Keeneland (Lexington), $1000 each, and Dade Park track (near Henderson) $500 a day during their race meets, but has no tax on bets, such as 19 other states have.

HAWKS HERE; BRUINS BANK ON 'FARMERS'

By BILL GRIMES

With replacements trying to fill the gaps caused by injuries to Capt. "Dit" Clapper, Bill Cowley and Herbie Cain, the Bruins will play the Chicago Blackhawks tonight at the Boston Garden.

Jack Shewchuk and Gordie Bruce, who have been with Cooney Weiland at Hershey, reported to Manager Art Ross today and will see service tonight, as will Frankie Mario, another fugitive from Hershey, and Phil Hergesheimer, an ex-Hawk, if his injured knee is pronounced O. K. by Dr. Thomas A. Kelley, Bruins' physician.

Shewchuk will team up with Jack Crawford on the defense, and Bruce will be used at left wing on the third line.

The Bruins are tied for first place with Rangers but they've been having tough sledding of late. In fact, with the exception of Rangers, who have won seven out of eight, Chicago is the only N. H. L. club to break even in their last eight games.

Over that stretch, the Leafs and the Canadiens have picked up a half-game on the Bruins, and the Red Wings and Brooklyn have held their own with the Rossmen.

MENTAL SLUMP

Just as soon as word was received that the Krauts would be called to the Canadian colors, the Bruins went into a mental slump. They appreciate that Bobby Bauer, Milt Schmidt and Woody Dumart are the backbone of their offense, and the thought of the Krauts leaving the club caused the players to let down.

Then came the loss of Bill Cowley, Capt. "Dit" Clapper and Herbie Cain in quick order. Cowley and Clapper, in all probability, are through for the season and it will be three or four weeks before Cain can return to the club.

Unless they get another extension of leave, the Krauts will play only three more N. H. L. games after tonight and, in the meantime, Manager Ross must dig up some replacements for that great trio.

The Bruins are at a loss to understand what has come over them during their last three games with the Americans. For a championship club to be taken three consecutive times by Amerks is unbelievable. But, that's what has happened and, as a result, the Rossmen are not in a very pleasant frame of mind as they get ready to take on the Blackhawks.

Then, too, the Hawks should be in a belligerent mood, for after snapping out of a six-game losing slump, they won six out of seven, only to do a nose dive last week when they met the Detroit Red Wings and Les Canadiens.

So the indications are that tonight's Bruins-Chicago tilt will be a battle royal.

Dartmouth Halts B. C.

Knocked out of the ranks of the undefeated and untied by a clearly superior Dartmouth six by a 7-2 score, the Boston College sextet will attempt to regain lost prestige at the expense of Northeastern in a college double-header tonight at the Arena.

Dartmouth should have little trouble with Boston University in the other game. Both contests are return bouts. B. C. conquered Northeastern, 5-3, while Dartmouth edged Boston U. 4-3 in previous games.

Riley scored thrice, assisted twice; Harrison scored twice, assisted once, and Rondeau scored twice and assisted once.

Thus the sensational Green sophs accounted for all of the Dartmouth goals and four of five assists. Harry Gerber aided Rondeau score the final goal.

TEMPLE OUT, MURPHY BACK

The "New Deal" in the athletic setup in the Cambridge school system has been declared void by the school committee on the recommendation of City Solicitor John A. Daly, with the result that a pair of sports leaders had been reduced to the ranks today.

Coach John Temple, leader of the Rindge Tech basketball team, and Joseph Santoro, faculty director of athletics in Cambrige Latin, lose their posts, attained this fall, by this ruling.

Both posts will revert back to their former occupants, Tommy Murphy of Rindge and Garrett Foley of Latin. Murphy and Foley had previously been installed as vocational guidance directors in their respective schools.

City Solicitor Daly declared that the new berths were illegal and recommended a move by the school committee. At a meeting, the committee abided by the finding, dropping the newly created positions.

Cooney Sees Tribe Aided By Florida

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 3 (AP)—Outfielder Johnny Cooney of the Boston Braves and Catcher Rick Ferrell of the St. Louis Browns expect their clubs' shift back to Florida for spring training to benefit both teams.

They said the Florida climate should help but the principal benefit would come from more representative spring schedules and a better line on what to expect from the opposition in the regular season.

The Browns and Braves trained in San Antonio, Tex., last spring. This year Boston will hold its preseason sessions at Sanford and St. Louis at Deland, bringing to 12 the number of major league clubs training in Florida.

"I think the change will help the Browns a lot in the spring training schedule as it will give them more of an opportunity to get a line on other major league players," explained Ferrell.

Cooney added: "Major league competition in spring training is important. Last year we met only the Browns and played them all the way in."

Ferrell said he also believed the Browns' chance would be improved because "of the inroads the draft has made on the younger players in the other clubs—naturally we lost one or two, but we have a pretty good bunch of players for this season."

Cooney also was optimistic, declaring "we have lost only one player in the draft. Last year we had a great many younger players needing experience. With that polishing off they got in major league competition, they should be able to do a lot better."

They also are pleased with the shift to Florida, they confessed, because both have winter homes here.

BETTER-THAN-AVERAGE NINE SEEN FOR HARVARD THIS YEAR

Despite the war, Harvard hopes for a better-than-average baseball team were high today following a turnout of 26 players, most of them battery men, for opening practice in Briggs Cage.

Coach Floyd Stahl had issued the call only for pitchers and catchers, but a handful of infielders and outfielders reported as well. The regular call for the full squad will come next week.

LUPIEN TO WORK DAILY

Leading pitchers reporting were Capt. Lou Clay of Milton and Mort Waldstein, veterans of last year's varsity; Warren Berg, star of the freshman squad of a year ago, and Joe Phelan and Joe Lusskin, two lads who played for the freshmen two years ago and then were out of school for a year.

Ulysses Lupien, former Harvard star, and Red Sox first baseman, was on hand and will work out with the boys until he goes South Feb. 26.

CATCHING BERTH OPEN

The catching post is wide open, with Paul Delahoyde, Gerard Callanan and Paul Quinn eager to replace Bob Regan, last year's backstop. Among those reporting were:

VARSITY

Pitchers—Capt. Louis Clay, Milton; Morton Waldstein, Brookline; Warren Berg, Cambridge; Joseph Phelan, Fall River; James Wilcox, Arlington; Walter Deane, Quincy; William Hoftyzer, Wellesley Hills; Robert Lusskin, Englewood, N. J.; Lewis Sandler, Verona, N. J.; Richard Begnita, Milwaukee, Wis.; and Irving Barkan, Cleveland, O

Catchers—Paul Delahoyde, Dorchester; Gerald Callanan, Newton; Fred Troy, Jr., West Roxbury; Paul Quinn, Cambridge; William Huassermann, Jr., Milton; Lloyd Anderson, Old Orchard, Me.; Robert Axtell, Evanston, Ill.; and Ray Perry, Kirkwood, Mo.

FRESHMAN BATTERIES

Harvard Choice Over Tufts Five

Sharpened by their decisive win over Northeastern Saturday night, the Tufts basketball team will tackle the Harvard five tomorrow night at the Harvard gym, determined to avenge last year's one-point loss to the Crimson on their own court.

In a preliminary game, the Crimson frosh will seek their fourth win against the young Jumbos.

The Harvard quintet, idle since the Jan. 10 upset victory over Dartmouth, was treated to a full-length practice game with Holy Cross yesterday in the indoor athletic building.

Crusader Coach Ed "Moose" Krause arranged the informal contest with Earl Brown several months ago.

Joe Romano, injured severely in the Dartmouth game, showed that his knee injury was mending fast by holding down the referee's job in nimble style. Buzz Hamilton, Crusader center, and Harvard regulars "Bunks" Burditt, Bill Webber, and Chris Finegan exhibited good sharpshooting as well as fine defensive play.

Based on comparative scores against Dartmouth, Brown, M. I. T., and Northeastern, the Harvard five is slightly favored to repeat last year's win.

Coast to See Major Leaguers in 90 Spring Games

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3 (AP)—It's 2000 miles to a big league ball park, but Southern Californians this spring will see 90 games involving four major clubs. That's more than any one team plays at home in a full season.

Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics will play in nearly half those contests—42. The A's are not likely to win the American League bunting, but they should have no ability over lack of training. Battery men report at Carlsbad Feb. 18 to bathe off excess poundage. The entire squad is due at Anaheim a week later.

Jimmy Wilson's Chicago Cubs are slated for 31 exhibitions and, not to be outdone too much by the A's, will send a No. 2 team into 10 more tilts. The Cubs go to Catalina Island, Feb. 21, and remain until March 12. Then they come to Wrigley Field, home of their little brother Los Angeles Angels of the Pacific Coast League.

Pasadena again will host Jimmy Dykes' Chicago White Sox due late this month.

Manager Frankie Frisch has asked his Pittsburgh pitchers and catchers to show up at El Centro Feb. 24. The rest of the squad is due 10 days later. Whether the Pirates will gather at El Centro or their customary San Bernardino Park depends upon availability of the latter site.

The A's, first to arrive, will get a big jump in the exhibition schedule. Connie sends his Macks against Seattle March 1 at Anaheim. He has them booked for seven more contests before Pittsburgh tries its luck against Seattle March 11, probably at San Bernardino.

The Cubs and Sox aren't scheduled for anything more exciting than intersquad tuneups until they meet each other here.

Ball players superstitious? The date's Friday, March 13.

Sox Dobson Another Sam Jones?

By HERB FINNEGAN

Joe Dobson doesn't talk much, but then Joe's racket is pitching, not talking. In fact if the curly-haired Tenneesean pitches as well this season as he did for the Red Sox from last Aug. 9 on, nobody will care if he becomes as silent as Stan Coveleski of the old Clevelands who used to say "Hello" in March, "It's Hot" in July, and "Goom-bye" in October.

Came the laconic message from Joe to Fenway Park's Johnny Orlando: "Send me some shoes and a sweatshirt. I want to work before going to Sarasota."

Not long but eloquent and typical of the good-natured giant who won 12 and lost five for the Sox last season and who was undefeated from Aug. 9 on

Joe Dobson

He won seven in a row during that stretch and would have made it eight had he not been injured in his last start against Washington. He was leading that 3-1 when he was forced to leave the game in the sixth. Then he saw Jack Wilson blow the lead and deprive him of victory.

Dobson, you may recall, came to the Red Sox with Frankie Pytlak last year for Gene Desautels, Jim Bagby and Gee Walker. The Sox wanted Pytlak badly. Joe was merely ballast.

It reminded one of the famous 1916 deal which sent Tris Speaker to Cleveland for a bundle of cash, and Sad Sam Jones. Sad Sam, like Dobson, was merely thrown in to "balance the scales," then developed into one of the finest pitchers in baseball.

GIVES CREDIT TO FOXX

Dobson may emulate Sam's feat. Certainly he showed some Grade A pitching late last summer. He had been used only on relief at Cleveland, and was none too highly rated.

He worked like a Trojan at Sarasota last spring but the Sox had so many pitchers around (they took 21 to camp) that Joe had to sit on the bench and await his turn. He waited and waited and waited, until those who did not make the trip to Sarasota were asking:

"Is there really a Dobson?"

They weren't convinced until May 19, because Joe had to wait until then to make his first start. But he showed enough on that outing to be used regularly thereafter.

Joe gave Jimmy Foxx credit for his improvement. He always had a lot of stuff but was shy of control. It was Foxxie who told him:

"Take a little longer between pitches. You're working too fast."

It was just what Joe needed, and he improved so fast he led the club in won-lost percentage at season's close.

BRIGHT SPOT FOR '42

Among his masterpieces were a four-hitter at Cleveland which he won 6-2, a four-hitter at Detroit in which he defeated Buck Newsom, 9-1, a five-hitter against the Browns, a five-hitter against the Nats, a six-hitter against the Indians at Fenway and a six-hitter against the A's which he lost 3-2.

He is one of the brightest spots in the Red Sox picture for 1942. He's married with a three-year-old son, so the Army won't be getting him, and the fact that he is anxious to get in trim at this early date is indication of his earnestness.

Yes, Dobson, as ballast, started like Sam Jones. Be nice if he developed into the pitcher Sam was, wouldn't it?

ROOKIE'S FATHER DIES

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—Harry Prendergast, 72, father of James Prendergast, rookie pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds of the National League, is dead here after a long illness.

JAPAN, BEWARE!

Gridstars In Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (INS)—Frank Filchock, triple threat ace of the Washington Redskins, was carrying the ball for Uncle Sam today.

The star quarterback, most valuable player in the Big Ten in 1938 when he starred for Indiana, was inducted into the Navy with the rank of yeoman, third class.

The possibility of his playing pro football was not altogether ruled out, as Filchock will be stationed at the Washington recruiting station and will remain in civilian quarters. He also will be allowed Sundays off and may be able to partake in some of the Redskins' home games if the Navy permits.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Feb. 3 (INS)—Norman Stand'ee, sensational rookie fullback for the Chicago Bears football team last fall after his graduation from Stanford University, was a rookie in the Army today. He left Palo Alto with a group of draftees for training in an Army camp. Color blindness prevented his enlistment in the Air Corps.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (INS)—Bruce Smith, captain and All-America halfback on Minnesota's undefeated football team of last fall, was in Chicago today to enlist in the U. S. Navy and undergo an operation on a knee he injured during the grid season.

The Gopher star, who won the Heisman trophy as most valuable player to his team during the 1941 season, said he had been granted a 15-day deferment by his draft board in Faribault, Minn., to come to Chicago for the naval enlistment.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Feb. 3 (AP)—George McAfee, former Duke University football star and sparkplug of the twice National League championship Chicago Bears, hopes to enlist in the Navy's physical fitness program.

"I'm going into the service soon," McAfee said here last night.

PHILS' PILOT GOES FAR OUT ON THE LIMB

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3 (AP)—If the Phillies don't win 50 per cent of their games in the National League this season—"they'll smell."

That's straight from John Hans Lobert, 60-year-old coach who succeeded Doc Prothro as manager last fall.

"I'll tell you a secret," he declared before he left for New York to attend a league meeting. "If we don't win 50 per cent of our games this year then we smell. Anything above that will be swell. But 57 per cent. That's our goal."

CELLAR LAST 4 YEARS

The last time the Phils hit .500 was in 1932 when they finished fourth with a record of 78 games won against 76 defeats. Since then they have never been higher than seventh, finishing in the cellar the last four years.

"When I was appointed manager," continued Lobert, who broke into the major leagues as a third baseman under the late John McGraw, "I got a lot of letters from persons who said they didn't know whether to congratulate me or sympathize with me.

OPEN FOR TRADES

"Get this, I don't want any sympathy. Neither do I want to hear that old gag 'wait until next year.' The hell with next year. This is the year. I've got the makings of a good ball club and don't forget that Bill Killefer and Chuck Klein will prove their worth as coaches.

"Gerry Nugent (president of the Phils) is co-operating with me in every way. We are ready to make trades any day that will help us, but believe me, we're not going to let any of our players get away for cheesecakes."

FLYING through the air with the greatest of ease, Harris Legg, leaps over many obstacles in the Ice Follies of 1942, coming to Boston Garden, Feb. 11

NEW SEA GULLS FACE PICS HERE TOMORROW

The Atlantic City Sea Gulls, which haven't made an appearance at the Garden since Nov. 14 and 15 when the Pics won both contests by overwhelming margins, will offer the opposition for the league leading Olympics at the North Station rink tomorrow night.

Only two points in front of the fast stepping New York Rovers, the locals, losers of four of their last five starts, must get themselves together if they expect to stay out front.

The Atlantic City team will be practically an entire new one when it takes the ice against the O's. Since the Gulls played here, Coach Bert Corbeau has cleaned house.

Johnnie Jones will be guarding the draperies, Eddie Boiteau and Gus Galipeau form the new defense duo and Hodgins, LaRoche and Duncan, all wingmen, will be showing here for the first time.

In spite of the sweeping changes in the Gulls' roster, the star of the club is still Tommy Burlington, leading scorer of the league. Through Jan. 30, he racked up a total of 73 points, 37 being goals. League record is held by Ab Collins of the N. Y. Rovers who hung up the mark of 102 points during the winter of 1939-40.

New Grid Foes On B. U. List

Syracuse and Ohio Wesleyan are new football foes for Boston University next fall, it was revealed yesterday.

Syracuse will be played at Syracuse in a floodlight contest Oct. 2, and Ohio Wesleyan will be played at Boston Nov. 14.

The third new team on the slate is Tufts, after a seven-year absence.

The schedule: Sept. 26, American International; Oct. 2, Syracuse at Syracuse (night game); 10, Western Maryland; 17, Tufts; 24, Bucknell; 31, Cincinnati at Cincinnati; Nov. 7, Franklin and Marshall; 14, Ohio Wesleyan; 21, Boston College.

SPORTS MIRROR

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Elmer Layden unexpectedly resigned as the Notre Dame football coach to become commissioner of National Pro Football League at $20,000 annually.

THREE YEARS AGO—Mello Bettina, 172½, knocked out Tiger Jack Fox, 173¾, in ninth round to win New York State recognition as light-heavyweight champion; Tony Galento knocked out Natie Brown in fourth round at Detroit after flooring him 10 times.

FIVE YEARS AGO—Willis Hudlin, Cleveland pitcher, and Billy Herman, Chicago Cub infielder, announced they were holdouts.

Legg Daredevil Of 'Ice Follies'

Harris Legg, daredevil of the Ice Follies of 1942, will present more daring innovations in his performances when he moves into the Garden with the ice show, next Wednesday, Feb. 11.

This opening program will be a special show with all proceeds to be turned over to the Navy Relief Society — a move brought about through the co-operation of Walter Brown, president of the Garden, and Eddie and Roy Shipstad and Oscar Johnson, co-owners of the Ice Follies.

Legg, only member of the cast wearing racing skates, will be remembered for his daring feat of jumping through a revolving hoop of flame.

If They're Pierponts, They're Surely Skiers

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Skiers and experts, too, are the Pierponts, Niles and "Shrimp." Many columns could be written about these two boys, but we will give you more details of their careers at a later date.

It is sufficient to say that they spent a winter abroad a few years ago, learning the art under none other than Meister Hannes Schneider, at his famous St. Anton-am-Ariberg in the Austrian Tyrol, before lengthening shadows in the snow turned from ski poles into Nazi bayonets.

Niles, formerly, was an instructor in the Newfound Region of New Hampshire. He now has a permanent position at Browning King's on Federal st., but he manages to go skiing every week-end and also does some instructing on these trips. He is soon scheduled to take a group of 30 Rainbow girls up to his favorite spot in North Pomfret, Vt. This region abounds in trackless open slopes. Niles makes his headquarters at the farm of Stan Keck, former All-America at Princeton.

PACKS 14-MONTH DAUGHTER

Brother "Shrimp" put in several seasons at Plymouth, N. H., with Wendy Hilty's Swiss Ski School. He is no longer in the ski business during the week, but also does his schussing week-ends. He has a beach wagon and journeys north with his family in it.

This veteran skier certainly believes in starting them in young. He has been known to take a 14-mile hike on skis, carrying his 14-months-old daughter, Cammie, in a pack strapped to his back. After "Shrimp" and his daughter have both had enough air and exercise his wife comes along in the car and rescues them.

When the skiing practically everywhere was very poor recently, Niles found good conditions and cover in that sheltered paradise at Waterville Valley, N. H. There is a new 1000-foot rope tow on the Greeley Pasture slopes in back of the inn, with room enough for about 250 skiers.

SKIING RUNS IN FAMILY

Many well-known skiers were seen seeking this snow sanctuary. Their - faces - were - familiar - department: Wendy Hilty and his wife; Dick Persons of the Swiss Ski School; Wemo Epply, Dartmouth sophomore slalom sensation; Alec Bright, famous racer from Boston's Ski Club Hochgebirge; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Livermore of the same club, and Francois Bertand, ski proof the Waterville Inn.

Skiing certainly runs in the Pierpont family! The wives of both brothers have learned to ski. Then there is Bill Ambler, Niles' nephew, who assists him in instructing. This chap, 18 years old, a 198-pound tall, blonde Viking, is also an amateur boxer, but Niles thinks that skiing is a lot easier on the eyes.
